Ducks and Fish
Tong Against Tong
Chicago's Triumph
Hard Brain Work

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1925, by Star Co.

MRS. P. A. LAIRD, a lady real estate dealer of Detroit, writes: "A Florida real estate company says you have purchased from them a lake front lot on the eastern shore of Lake Okeechobee and they are using this as a selling point. Is it true?"

NO, IT ISN'T. This writer has bought nothing on Lake Okeechobee, but is informed by his ancient friend, W. J. Conners, owner of the Buffalo Courier, that a deed for a Lake Okeechobee lot has been sent as a tribute; also that as you sit on this lot you can catch fish in the front yard and shoot ducks in the back yard. This writer hasn't seen the lot; can't guarantee the ducks or the fish, has complete confidence in Mr. Conners, but does not advise anybody to buy anything.

CHINESE in America insist on fighting. Tong against Tong. Killings annoy the public, so hundreds of Chinese are rounded up, compelled to sign a peace treaty and stop killing each other.

Some will say this interferes with the rights of man, that if Chinese want to kill each other they should be allowed to kill each other.

BUT A MAJORITY, recalling Goethe's saying, "I prefer injustice to disorder," will approve the restoration of order by arresting the Chinese, just or unjust. And they wish that somebody might do for the nations of Europe what United States police are doing for the Chinese in this country.

CHICAGO HAS 3,000,000 population, and proves it, but that doesn't mean much. Chicago will have 5,000,000 population and 10,000,000 population, and, in the regular course of events, growing along the lake, will meet Milwaukee coming down on one side, and Gary on the other.

MORE IMPORTANT proof of progress and civilization is the fact that Chicago leads New York and the whole world in circulation of books from the public library. Chicago's circulation of public library books for last year was 10,813,978, against about 9,000,000 volumes in New York.

And Chicago does a good deal of serious reading, and thinking.

THREE MONTHS AGO many young gentlemen concentrated massive brains on the choice of a straw hat for the Summer. Yesterday the straw hat season died officially, and those young minds, after a good long rest, went to work again deciding on the shape, color and tilt of a felt hat.

NEXT SPRING, after a rest through the Winter, the same mental task will be courageously undertaken. And there you have the intellectual life history of many in the United States.

IT WAS REPORTED yesterday that Henry Ford was negotiating for the purchase of the Lorsy cotton mills, in North Carolina. The mills, among the biggest in the South, manufacture fabric for automobile tires. That purchase by Ford would shoot that he intends to add tire making to other enterprises.

If Ford should introduce Henry Ford wages among cotton mill operators, and prove that such wages could be paid profitably, he would interest many.

TROTZKY SAYS a revolution is sure to come in Great Britain, and what's more, he predicts an "uprising of the American proletariat."

According to Trotzky, it is "American capitalism" that lays the foundation for wars and revolutionary upheavals, which, in their frightful rebound, will not fail to strike the economic system of the United States.

STATE OFFICIAL AVERS BIG BOOST IN RATES HAS INJURED SERVICE

Reluctant admission that "several thousand" subscribers have ordered their 'phones out because of the 'phone rate boost was made today by William H. O'Brien, chief of the telephone and telegraph division of the Department of Public Utilities.

As it was that department that authorized the rate boost, sometimes referred to as "grab," or "steal," his admission was doubly significant.

Mr. O'Brien further allowed that the indignation aroused by that rate increase, by which the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company was handed $8,500,000, was having a serious effect on the service.

He spoke on the telephone situation to the State Firemen's Association, in convention at Gloucester. Mr. O'Brien is chief of the telephone and

PLUCKY SOCIETY GIRL WHO FOILED DEATH

Olivia Ames, Hub society girl and dancing partner of Prince of Wales, who escaped death by sheer nerve when her auto came near crashing into train at Pride's Crossing. She swung the car into a fence and leaped, unhurt, to safety.

Pride's Crossing, Sept. 16.—Olivia Ames, society girl and daughter of Oliver Ames, also a dashing pal of the Prince of Wales in the hunt and ballroom, narrowly escaped death here when her own courage and coolness preventer her machine colliding with a Boston-bound train.

As it was, Miss Ames was obliged to swerve so suddenly that her automobile skidded on the wet roadway, crashed into the fence surrounding

Bowdoin Square Cave 'Mystery' Is Exploded

The mystery cave discovered by workers laying a foundation for the new Bowdoin Square [illegible] was explained today as [illegible] under the old Merrill Hotel which stood on the site of the new garage, police reported after investigation today.

The room was used by the hotel firemen before the telephone and telegraph cables were installed. It was covered up when the old building was torn away.

BIBLE READERS IN 'STRETCH'

Boston's Bible marathoners turned into the home stretch late today and pegged sturdily along the Corinthian route.

Hours ahead of their own schedule? the wearying readers bid fair to clip sixteen hours from the seventy-two-hour Bible-reading record set up three months ago in the Middle West.

And not a little of credit due will go to fourteen-year-old Dorothy Cassidy of No. 15 6Central street, Everett, who read between 12 and 2 a. m. today, then came back and read between 4 and 8 a. m.

At noon today 1,147 pages of the Bible out of the total of 1,250, had been covered, or more than 90 per cent. The finishing time was set as between 4 and 5 p. m. today.

CROWD LISTENS IN.

As the rain descended and the floods came in the gutters of the earlier day in the world outside the Seventh Day Adventist Temple in Warren avenue the indefatigable readers completed the Old Testament and continued without interruption right into the New.

GIRL VICTIM WARNS OF DRUG PERILS AS POLICE PUSH PROBE OF 'RING'

Worcester, Sept. 16.—The crusade against the local drug ring, found to have taken heavy toll of local boys and girls, received additional impetus today through the tragic story of a drug slave, a former Leominster school teacher.

Wrecked by spasms of pain induced by the dope habit, the teacher laid bare her dealings with the soulless purveyors of narcotics, whose tentacles are said to have spread into the city's best social circles.

Her pitiful story added the latest sensation to the exposé that has shaken this city to its foundations, beginning with the arrest of two physicians and three other men, and involving druggists and the police officers.

Dr. Frederick Bryant, of No. 458 Main street, with Frederick Gullberg and James Ward, were arraigned today before Judge Samuel Utley in local district court. Ward was discharged and the physician and Gullberg were held for the grand jury for violation of the state narcotic laws.

Dr. Walter Harris and Harry Marse, colored, were arraigned before the U. S. Commissioner yesterday, and held for a hearing later.

Already one policeman must answer charges because two druggists were not served with warrants, though the two men have been called to court.

MOLLENHAUER QUITS IN SYMPHONY ROW

Evidence of an open breach in the ranks of the People's Symphony Orchestra, widened by charges of petty politics and incompetent directors, being known today with announcement that Emil Mollenhauer, conductor of that organization, had resigned.

At the offices of the Musicians' Union, Convention Hall, sponsors of the orchestra, Arthur E. Harris, publicity director, said that in so far as he knew Mr. Mollenhauer would remain as conductor. J. L. Hedard, treasurer, said, however, that Stuart Mason, former assistant conductor, would be in charge this season. He was reluctant to admit any dissension in the ranks.

Upon being interviewed at his home, No. 189 Huntington avenue, Mr. Mollenhauer admitted he had tendered his resignation August 1 and produced a letter of its acceptance by the board of directors.

He charges the directors with trying to hide the facts in the case and added that the organization was being conducted on a political basis rather than as an artistic medium.

Mr. Mason, member of the faculty of the New England Conservatory of Music, confirmed the report that he was the new resident conductor, but added that the policy of the orchestra this season would need to call the importation of guest conductors.

Mr. Mason will conduct the opening concert of the season Sunday.

TEACHER, DRUG ADDICT, TELLS OF VAIN FIGHT AGAINST HABIT

FORMER LEOMINSTER GIRL UNABLE TO OVERCOME DREAD CRAVING AFTER ATTEMPTING CURE

town school mistress, told the story that has pictured in the minds of parents the tragic fate that looms before their own daughters. From her place of confinement, where she prays for the "cure" that physicians say is impossible in her case, the wraith of a once beautiful girl gave her story to the world in the hope that it might keep at least one weak sister from following the awful path.

"I was born near Leominster," she whispered, "carefully reared and educated by my family which is still prominent there. I taught school near Leominster for a time, and then went to New Hampshire to teach.

"I was taken ill and my parents brought me to a hospital for treatment. There, all unconscious of the harm they were doing me, the physicians administered opiates to relieve my pain.

"After I had recovered, I felt the incessant craving. I did not know then what it was, though now I know well enough it was the first sign of the "yen," the habit.

"I met a man one day to whom I told my illness, and the strange craving. The meeting with this man was the most terrible thing that could have befallen me, for doubtedly have outgrown the habit without ever realizing that I was in a measure a victim.

SUPPLIED WITH DRUG.

"He supplied the white powder that appeased the strange appetite. He showed me where I could get the stuff myself. In no time I had become a regular customer of the pedlar.

"Then my pedlar was forced to leave the city and in search of another provider of the drug I encountered 'Ali, the Turk.' I was Ali's victim for a long time, contracted the name 'White Lena' among the addicts, because I used cocaine almost exclusively, rarely touching heroin or morphine, and took part in any underworld scheme to make money with which to buy the 'junk.'

"Then the police came to Ali's house. He was arrested and sent to the State prison at Charlestown. The woman who lived as his wife threw herself down four flights to her death rather than serve time in prison without her drug. I was arrested and placed in the House of Detention on Summer street.

HUSBAND BECOMES VICTIM.

"There was no 'cure' at the house of detention, the system being what we addicts call 'cold turkey,' simply letting the victim suffer the awful agonies of the unappeased appetite.

"But after a time I found that the agony was passing, that the demand of my body for the drug was passing, ever so slowly, but really passing. Then came hope. Kindly matrons and others interested roused in me the desire to fight off the curse.

"Finally I was rereleased, and I walked out of the house of detention secure in the faith that I had beaten the 'habit.' I went back to the little New Hampshire town where I had taught school. I met a young fellow there who was prospering in his business. He grew to love me and I him. He proposed marriage, and even though I feared I might lose him if I told him the truth I would not marry him under the shadow of a lie.

TOLD OF HABIT.

"I told him that I had been a drug victim, told him that I had been in prison, but I added that I was confident I had beaten the poppy.

"He took me, and I was never so happy. We were married, lived in the little town, and were respected and loved by our neighbors. A girl child came, making our happiness complete.

"And then one day there came the man who had first introduced me to the drug. He laughed when he met me on the street and I told him joyfully that I was 'cured.'

"'Once a snowbird always a snowbird,' he returned, though his words did not shake my faith. He left some stuff with me, and I thought I cared so little about it that I did not throw it away.

"I was very ill one day, and some fearful influence induced me to try just one little sniff of the drug to ease my pain. That was the end.

"But it was worse than that. My husband noticed my peculiar appearance. He suspected the truth. Then he said: 'If you are going to take that stuff I am, too. Do you think that will keep you away from it?'

"I didn't, and he kept his word.

BACK IN PRISON.

"The answer? I am again in prison. My husband is wandering through some underworld dive, also a hopeless addict.

"And my daughter. My God, my little daughter. I do not know where she is and when I can get the drug I don't care. I would sell my daughter for one sniff of the white powder.

"Tell that to the Worcester girls. Tell that to their mothers."

From Mrs. Rowley's place of confinement to police headquarters, where is the other new angle of the dope probe, is but a step. Police heads are investigating why warrants placed in the hands of patrolmen were not served on Druggist James C. Fausnaught and his prescription clerk, Walter B. Barrett, on the night that two physicians and three alleged dope pedlars were arrested.

GETS SIX MONTHS FOR GUN-TOTING

Lawrence E. Greenleaf of Nahant, was sentenced to six months in the House of Correction by Judge Kiely in Lynn District Court today for carrying a concealed weapon. He was the first man to appear in that court on that charge since the new law covering concealed weapons went into effect in July. The arrest of Greenleaf followed a fight in Olympia square, Lynn, in which one Arthur Blanchard was beaten up.

jaw, missing teeth and other injuries.

The cause of the alleged assault is understood to be a fee of $700 assessed on Woolford's mother by Dorsey "for services rendered."

Woolford was bailed early today in $20,000 by Franklin friends and left immediately for his home. He pleaded not guilty to an assault charge and the case was continued to September 25.

Woolford called on Dorsey, who occupies offices in the Ames Building with John J. Welsh. There was no sound of argument or violence until the door of Attorney Dorsey's office was slammed violently and the key turned.

Woolford, according to Dorsey's story, leaped upon him as soon as the door was locked, raining blow after blow on his head and face and body.

Next the assailant, according to the lawyer's description of the attack, dragged Dorsey to the door, using his body as an additional barricade against outside interference, and then started kicking his victim in the face.

Attorney Welsh heard the commotion by this time, and tried to force his way into Dorsey's office, but without success. He ran across the hall and summoned Judge M. J. Connolly and Thomas Dolan.

The three stormed the door, and, despite threats from Woolford, "If you put your head in that door I'll kill you," finally made entrance.

Other tenants of nearby offices had by this time called in Patrolman William Smith and Traffic Officer Kilduff.

They found Dorsey all but unconscious and bleeding from a score of cuts and bruises, while Woolford's shoes looked as though he had waded in blood. Dorsey was taken to the City Hospital, Woolford to the Milk street station.

It is understood that Woolford wanted his mother's legal papers in order to bring them to another lawyer who was to look after the Woolford legal affairs because of Dorsey's large fee. Young Woolford was so irate at the fee that Dorsey is reported to have said to him: "If you talk that way I'll add another $300," and then the assault began.

SYMPHONY ROW

October 25, at the Hollis Street Theatre.

Miss Ethel Leginska, famous pianist, will be the guest at the three following concerts and Percy Grainger, eminent pianist, has been secured for an appearance later in the season.

All the concerts this year will be held at the Hollis Street Theatre, the Keith-Albee interests having leased the St. James Theatre, where the orchestra appeared last season.

Mr. Mollenhauer, who has been conductor of the orchestra since its organization five years ago, said he would have nothing further to do with the Symphony under any condition. He will devote his time to the Handel and Haydn Society, of which he has long been conductor.

reading when the line was crossed, but he made no comment.

As the New Testament constitutes a bit less than one-third of the present-day Bible, the task of the readers was then on the downhill grade.

Throughout the night more than 500 persons visited the Temple and sat quietly for varying times, listening to the droning voices of the relaters of the Holy Word.

The hour of 3:10 A. M. found the New Testament being plunged into and by eight o'clock the readers had coursed through, to the completion of the Gospel of St. John.

NEW READERS HELP.

At ten o'clock the readers had progressed through the Book of Acts.

Forty-two hours and ten minutes were reuired to read the Old Testament.

New readers today to augment the wearying veterans were Dorothy Caverly of Malden, Mrs. Genevieve Hastings of South Lancaster, Madeline Snell of Cambridge, Alexander Smith of Everett, James Ray of Melrose and D. N. Martin of Hingham.

NEAR DEATH

the estate of the late Judge William H. Moore, tore down rods of the fence, and Miss Ames was hurled from the driver's seat.

However, the sportswoman, who has become inured to "croppers" in the hunt, picked herself up, brushed off her frock, and assured Motor Cycle officer Harold Morley that she was all right when he dashed to the spot, fearful that she had been killed.

Miss Ames was on her way home to the Ames Summer place in Beverly. As she motored along Hale street a curve in the road hid the railroad tracks from her. She was all but atop the tracks when she saw that the grade-crossing bars were down, and the train was clanging into the station.

Scores of Boston and New York society folk who were waiting for the train saw the popular society girl's danger, and screamed a warning, even though it did not seem possible that she could avert a crash with the train.

Without losing her head for an instant, the "richest bachelor girl in the world," jammed her wheel over and chose the alternative of careening into the Moore fence.

While the wheels of the wrecked auto were still spinning, crowds gathered around the girl, fearing that she must be injured, and offering her haven in their Summer homes. With a smile, Miss Ames asked simply for permission to telephone home for another car.

WALKER'S LEAD CUT BY LATE RETURNS

New York, Sept. 16.—"I am pleased at two things," was Mayor Hylan's first statement to a group of newspapermen he found awaiting his arrival at City Hall today.

"The first is that I pulled the mask off the big Tammany Hall man from Albany. The second is that I made the traction and underworld interests expend an average of $400 an election district to defeat me."

When one of the reporters handed him a newspaper containing an editorial which suggests the possibility of the mayor running independently, Mayor Hylan, without reading the newspaper editorial said:

"I have not seen any newspapers this morning, except two, and I don't know what is in the others."

Tammany, having taken the edge off its elation over the decisive victory, today proceeded to await expectantly the next move by Mayor Hylan. Walker's majority apparently is 91,000.

As further returns drifted in it was indicated the Hylan county tickets in Manhattan and Bronx suffered more badly than did Mayor Hylan. Many voters were known to cast their ballots for Hylan splitting the remainder for the regular Tammany county designers.

Complete returns show Senator Walker victor over Mayor Hylan for the Democratic nomination by a plurality of 85,548.

Mayor Hylan's complete vote in the five boroughs was 154,026; Senator Walker's was 249,579.

Frank D. Waterman's triumph over his Republican opponents for the mayoralty nomination was overwhelming. The fountain pen manufacturer received six votes to one for his rivals, John F. Lyons and William E. Bennett.

With only 46 districts missing of 2,970 the total stood:

Walker, 343,353.
Hylan, 151,593.

With Walker were nominated Charles W. Berry for comptroller and Joseph V. McKee for president of the board of aldermen.

WOMAN MIXES UP MAYORALTY FIGHT

Wife Fears Financier C. W. Morse Is Dying

FIGHTS TO SAVE HIS LIFE

"He Won't Let Him Go!" She Cries in Her Agony

New York, Sept. 16.—"He won't let him go!"

Mrs. Charles Wyman Morse cried that in agony as her husband, the giant of Wall street twenty years ago, lapsed into a deep coma on his return to New York from Bath, Me., where he was taken four months ago when seized with a paralytic stroke.

Morse is dying, his wife believes. The man whose wealth was conservatively fixed at $50,000,000 twenty years ago; the financial wizard who controlled fourteen huge banks, sixty ice companies, who was dictator of big shipping enterprises in those days—it's hard for the adoring wife to believe her husband must go.

Charles Morse was sent to the penitentiary in 1908 for alleged misapplication of the funds of one of his banks. He was released by President Taft. He lost all his money. But he wouldn't stay down.

He had hardly left the Federal prison when his master strokes had the "Street" mesmerized, and before they could say Jack Robinson he "cleaned up" $7,500,000.

To him that was nothing. But somehow he couldn't swing like he used to. Where he formerly dabbled in projects involving hundreds of millions, he found his mental stamina on the wane and he confined his activities, as a result, to lesser deals.

Mr. Morse is being attended by his lifelong friend and counselor, Dr. Barker and Dr. Henry James at No. 160 West Fifty-ninth street. Both physicians hope for recovery.

MORSE, IN HIS GREATEST FIGHT

Morse, noted financier, now believed near death from paralysis, being carried into his home at No. 160 West Fiftieth street, New York, after his return from Bath, Me., where he was taken for his health. MISS CURTIS ENTERS BOSTON CONTEST

Ambitious hopefuls who aspire to the seat of honor in City Hall are worried today when they find arrayed against them Boston's only woman candidate for mayor, and the candidate who has never tasted defeat.

Frances G. Curtis, descendant of one of the most distinguished families in the country, and a member of the School Committee for the past 13 years, has formally announced her candidacy.

Miss Curtis makes no hysterical plea for the woman vote, nor will the feminine appeal be stressed in her campaign.

DAN COAKLEY IN FIGHT.

She says simply that her long experience on the School Committee has qualified her to seek the position of Mayor, that she polled 4,700 more votes for her office than Mayor Curley did for his at the last election, and that she has had 15 years' experience in politics.

Still another candidate comes forward with the strangest platform that ever a man ran for office on in Boston's history. Daniel H. Coakley is seriously in the fight, and his issue is the vindication of the late Joseph C. Pelletier.

Coakley believes that his election would mean that the people of Boston think that the charges brought against Pelletier of malfeasance and misfeasance in his office as district attorney were unsound.

CAUSES GOO-GOO SPLIT.

Coakley has long been a big figure in Boston's politics, though, heretofore, he has been content with being "the man behind" rather than the outstanding figure. Now, how ever, he is in the race in person, and his formal application for papers will be forthcoming shortly.

This somewhat unexpected candidacy will have a peculiar effect on the race.

The candidacy of General Edward L. Logan was expected to be the standard to which the ardent supporters of the late district attorney would flock for the very reason that has made the soldier's fight a cause of war in the Good Government ranks.

There are members of the Good Government strategy board who believe that Logan should have run for district attorney against Pelletier under the Goo Goo banner. The fact that he did not do so won the General many friends among the Pelletier followers.

EXPECT SHIFT TO COAKLEY.

Now these Pelletier supporters will, in the judgment of political sharps, shift to the Coakley forces, for Dan Coakley was Pelletier's most intimate friend.

How the Coakley advent will affect the Logan fight is problematical, for while Coakley is bound to draw some votes from Logan, he is equally sure to draw as many, if not more, from the other Democratic candidates.

There is another angle to the Coakley entry, and this is the possible entrance of former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald. The man who glorified "Sweet Adeline" was all prepared to run some months ago. Then he changed his mind. Then more recently he decided to run again. Democratic leaders assured him that Logan, Kelliher, O'Brien and Glynn were going to reach some sort of compromise, and Fitz stepped out in order not to complicate the problem further. Now, with Coakley's campaign all set to go, it is more than probable that Fitz may inject himself into the fight, on the assumption that there is no hope of compromise when a new aspirant of such votegetting qualities as Coakley enters.

WADSWORTH TALKED OF.

The Republican campaign is rolling more or less smoothly for Malcolm Nichols, with the candidacies of Charlie Burrill and Alonzo B. Cook as the only rifts in the lute.

Each of these, however, is figured to be "the bad boy of the Republican Party," and it is considered doubtful by the Republican leaders that either will injure Nichols among the members of his own party to any great extent.

The greatest threat to the Nichols campaign came from the ardent supporters of Eliot Wadsworth who offered him as candidate. This is a name who would unquestionably draw many Republican votes from the Nichols banner, but the capable hand of Charlie Innes reached out and plucked the Wadsworth bud in the blooming.

HOLD WOMAN IN RUM SHIP CASE

London, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Mme. Mabel Caxaces, part owner of the whiskey ship General Serrett, was arrested today on a charge preferred by a large Oxford street firm of obtaining goods under false pretenses.

The arrest, which was made by two detectives, considerably surprised Mme. Caxaces, who at the time was visiting her solicitors in connection with a move for an injunction to restrain the action of the General Serrett from continuing to act in that capacity and from refusing her access to the ship.

She accompanied the officers in a taxicab, was arraigned and remanded. There was a fresh development in the checkered career of that whiskey ship today when Captain W. P. Whitburn initiated an action for payment of the wages and disbursements of the master and caused the ship to be arrested by admiralty marshals.

Several other passengers were shaken up when an in-bound Boston Elevated street car crashed into an Inter-State bus operating between Boston and Nashua, N. H., at Dartmouth street and Huntington avenue.

The bus, owned by the Inter-State company of No. 132 Stuart street, Boston, was operated by Roland E. Coburn of No. 201 Main street, Nashua, and was bound for Nashua when the accident happened.

According to the Back Bay police who were called to remove Miss Davis to the City Hospital, the bus collided with the car, throwing Miss Davis against a seat and other passengers in the car onto the floor.

The crash was heard several blocks away and attracted a large crowd. The electric car was not damaged to any extent, but the radiator on the bus was smashed and several windows were broken.

Miss Davis was cut about the head and face and bruised about the legs and arms. Although her condition is not regarded as dangerous, she will require medical aid for several days, as it is feared that she may have suffered internal injuries.

The bus was taken to a nearby garage. The Elevated car was in charge of Motorman No. 2353 and Conductor 2253. After the police had removed Miss Davis to the hospital and investigated the accident they decided to make no arrests.

BIGAMIST AT 22 WED HIS FIRST WHEN 16

White Plains, N. Y., Sept. 16 (A.P.)—A bigamist at twent-two, with three wives, is the matrimonial record of Jay Squiers, arraigned in County Court today on charges of bigamy and abandonment.

When Squiers was arraigned on charges preferred b wives No. 1 and No. 2, he disclosed he also had married a third girl in January, formerly Miss Georgiana Kilduss, of Brooklyn, under the name of Jay Gilcrest after a six day courtship.

Count Judge Bleakley sentenced the youth to from three and one-half years to seven, in Sing Sing on the two charges.

Squier's first bride was Miss Dorothy Vanderbeck of Plainfiled, N. J., whom he married when he was sixteen. Three years later, he secretly married Miss Vera Jewell, of Peekskville, N. Y. Each bore him two children.

"We want him punished as much as possible," the two wives told Judge Bleakley. "It was bad enough to ruin our lives, but when he fooled this last girl, that was too much."

$1,380 PRIZES FOR DOLLAR BILLS

Who wants $1,380—a bit more or less? Or any part of it, $50, $20 or $10.

How silly!

But it's Dollar Dan asking the question, and he's silly from chasing Uncle Sam's Two-Dollar-Bill jinx by paying out sheaves of them for lucky Dollars.

Just now—counting today's seventeen new lucky numbers—here's a total right around $1,380, free and footloose throughout Boston and New England.

Hop right to it—by the numbers, as the shavetails and the top sergeants used to chirp at us so sweetly. And if you don't find that your dollar bills bear lucky numbers, don't let them slip from your hands.

Your number, or numbers, may be in tomorrow's list or the next day's or some list of next week.

Nine new winners can be chalked up today, with a total of $210 handed out by Dollar Dan to the octet of lucky number holders.

These new winners are:

Mrs. Belle Robinson, No. 48 East Pearl street, Nashua, N. H., Bill No. K72017272H, for $50.

Such is the prospect for America."

VERY SAD INDEED, but just what is the AMERICAN PROLETARIAT, and how does a proletarian remain a proletarian? He doesn't call himself one after he has bought and begun to pay for a house and lot.

AS FOR the British, they have managed to get along without anything in the way of a serious revolution since the days of Cromwell. They changed from Conservative government to a Labor government, then back to Torydom without shipwreck. The Britisher likes his beer, peace, cricket, King George, and doesn't like revolution. He considers it foreign and "un-British."

THOSE THAT understand FASHION, and think they know women, report a coming change. Women will cover up their knees, their arms, and their backs, at least half way up from the waist. They have decided, say fashion experts, that "subtle concealment is more alluring even than exposed dimpled knees, or elbows."

WOMEN MADE that discovery fifty thousand years ago. Things that men cannot see, from the mechanism of the universe on down, are the things that interest him.

Even a small monkey is more interesting dressed up in a red flannel gown, with a little cap on his head.

JACK ISHAK HELMY, powerful Egyptian swimmer, unable to swim the English Channel, gave up the effort three and one-half miles from Dover, because cold water had lowered his vitality. This one of many failures should interest fathers and mothers that send their children out in the Winter with bare legs, under the impression that a young child has sufficient vitality to heat all out-doors.

MULES TO LOSE JOBS AS MINES ARE ELECTRIFIED

Hazleton, Pa., Septe. 16 (A.P.).—Many mules in the Lehigh Coal Field are likely to find themselves "out of jobs" when work is resumed. While the colliers are idle a number of the big operators, with permission of the United Mine Workers, are extending the use of electric power in their slopes, with the result that fewer mules will be needed. It is predicted that in time the animals will be employed only where it is impossible to string wires in the mines.

EXILES HERSELF FOR MOTHER

Chicago, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—How a devoted daughter for two and one-half years imposed upon herself voluntary imprisonment in a downtown hotel room to care for her mother there and prevent exposure of the mother's mental condition, has come to light as a result of an inquiry by her father, Raleigh D. Harding of Wilmington, Del.

Neither mother nor daughter had stepped out of the room after they came to Chicago. Dreading the thought of confinement in an institution, the daughter, Louise, had brought the mother from Wilmington to Chicago.

The father was kept from knowledge of his wife's real condition by assurances from Louise that "mother is improving." From Wilmington he regularly mailed checks.

Then the hotel management became suspicious and notified him.

In 1919 he went to Berne, Switzerland, as a military attache.

COOLIDGE MAN IN NEW FIGHT ON LA FOLLETTE

Wilcox, Defeated at Primary, Will Be in Race as Independent

Milwaukee, Sept. 16 (A.P.)—Robert M. La Follette, Jr., son of "Fighting Bob," in the Wisconsin Senatorial Primary carried sixty-three of the seventy-one counties and received the Republican nomination. With 263 precincts missing out of 2,951, La Follette had 163,584.

Wilcox 72,986; Woodward 37,227.

Mc Govern 17,866.

The vote represented somewhat less than half the voting strength of the State, few more than 300,000 going to the polls. Those who did vote registered in no uncertain manner their desire to retain La Follettelism in Wisconsin.

Young Bob, just within the constitutional age limit, won with a majority of 29,495 over his three opponents and a plurality of 85,448 over his nearest opponent—Roy P. Wilcox of Eau Claire, the Coolidge candidate.

Wilcox did not make the run expected of him by his supporters. Daniel Woodward of Kaukauna, running with the endorsement of the Ku Klux Klan, was the surprise candidate, finishing third and carrying three counties.

La Follette will be opposed for election by his most formidable opponent of yesterday, who ran as a Republican, but also filed as an Independent, and will run under that designation September 29.

Wilcox came into the fight against La Follettelism at a convention of Coolidge Republicans meeting at Oshkosh.

HEIRESS TO $4,000,000 MARRIES SCHOOLBOY

Los Angeles, Sept. 16.—Olive Proctor Van Heusen, 18-year-old heiress of a $4,000,000 estate, eloped to Riverside, Cal., and was married to Harold John Schlan, a Los Angeles schoolboy.

The bride's mother is Mrs. Elmo K. Lincoln, wife of the motion picture producer and actor, formerly the wife of the New York Van Heusen family.

MARRY YOUNG, SAYS BINDER OF 1,600

Rector Retiring After 51 Years in Pulpit Strong for Apartment Houses

Having tied the marriage knot around 800 couples in his fifty-one years as rector of the Church of Good Shepherd, South End, Rev. George J. Prescott will retire Oct. 1 from active church duty to give his personal attention to other activities.

Rev. Prescott

He has seen them come and go, he says, married them and buried them as well and after all those many years he stands pat on the marriage issue as a permanent institution. Dr. Prescott has the longest ministerial record of any clergyman in Massachusetts.

He advises young folks to marry at an early age, but with the added idea that the uphill struggle be mutual if it is to be a correct union.

"The apartment house is the solution to the problem," he continued. "What with expenses as they are, the inability to have a city house looms blazingly on the horizon. Young folks can't afford it. The small apartment, the box-like flat, the intimacy of tiny living quarters gives more promise to life and adds many millions to the population."

"Nothing wrong with marriage," the rector says. "I've been married twice so you see how I stand on it. The individuals who make up the game are at fault. They pull away instead of together."

Dr. Prescott said that adjustment is to marriage what steam heating is to an apartment. Not really necessary but terribly comfortable.

Before coming to the Church of Good Shepherd, truly a "little church around the corner," in 1874, he was an assistant preacher at Grace Church, Lawrence. He is chaplain at the McLean Hospital, where he spends much of his time.

Many Hub Social Leaders Returning Aboard Samaria

Busy Social Seasons Face Members of Smart Set Back From Pleasure Jaunts Through England and on Continent

Betty Alden

FROM THE A'S TO THE Z'S, THE STEAMship Samaria's passenger list for the current crossing to home shores fairly bristles with Boston names of high social significance. A full complement of returning voyagers, those happy travelers from European playgrounds, is aboard and due to dock today. Foremost in the list there is a triumvirate of distinguished matrons.

MRS. NATHANIEL THAYER of Fairfield street and Lancaster, Mrs. Timothee Adamowski of Beacon Hill's celebrated precincts and Mrs. Clarence Ransom Edwards of Westwood are passengers, Mrs. Adamowski, with Mr. Adamowski, comes home from the regular foreign journey which is their usual program. Mrs. Thayer, combining in a way business with pleasure, renewed many friendships in England and on the Continent and studied industrial questions as well.

MRS. EDWARDS FOLLOWED enthusiastically a battlefield tour, visiting every spot in Northern France associated with the war duties of her popular husband, Major-General Clarence R. Edwards of the Twenty-sixth Division. Paris and London also were on her itinerary.

BACK FROM EUROPE to make her debut, comes Miss Frederica Warner, with her parents, the Henry C. Warners, and sister, Miss Margaret (Peggy) Warner. Many bits of feminine finery bearing the mark of Paris are in the boxes of the daughters. Miss Margaret Warner, by the way, is a bridesmaid on Saturday at the Bigelow-Eliot wedding.

MISS SUZANNE APSEY, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred S. Apsey of Cambridge, the Edmund Kent Arnolds of Gloucester street with their youngest daughter, Miss Rosamund Arnold, Dr. and Mrs. Charles S. Butler, with Miss Elizabeth Butler and Charles S. Butler, Jr., Miss Betty Dumaine and Miss Cordelia Dumaine (both clever young horsewomen) are on the Samaria.

THE L. CARTERET FENNOS, MRS. FENNO and the Misses Pauline, Marian, Florence and Elizabeth, are returning also, after extended European travels and a Summer in England. Also William Endicott and Mrs. Endicott, Mrs. Charles E. Inches, Mrs. John L. Grandin and Miss Isabella Grandin, Mr. and Mrs. Ellery Peabody, the Alexander Whitesides, with Thomas and Howard Whiteside.

DR. WILLIAM BRADFORD ROBBINS, Dr. E. Lawrence Oliver and Dr. George H. Thomas represent professional circles. Dr. Robbins of Boston and Argilla road, Ipswich, returns homeward after the briefest of stays abroad. Mrs. John Lowell of Commonwealth avenue with Miss Lucy Lowell arrive following a stay with Mrs. Lowell's daughter, the Countess of Berkeley.

THE COUNTESS, formerly Mrs. Francis V. Lloyd (Mary Lowell), is chatelaine of one of England's stately homes, Berkeley Castle, in Gloucestershire. Her marriage to Rawdon Mohray, eighth Earl of Berkeley, was celebrated not so very long ago in London. Her son, Francis V. Lloyd, is a student at exclusive St. George's School, Newport.

Natalie Hammond, daughter of the John Hays Hammonds, scintillates brightly in society both at Gloucester and Washington. The Hammond place at the shore is called "Lookout Hill."

DR. C. C. LITTLE STARTS WEST

Dr. Clarence C. Little, who on Nov. 2 will be installed president of the University of Michigan, leaves today by automobile with his family for their new home.

Only 15 years out of Harvard, where he was "Pete" Little, brilliant scholar, star hurdler and shot-putter, he will assume one of the most distinguished educational posts in the world.

Following his graduation he was secretary to President Eliot and then secretary of the corporation. In 1916 he was made assistant dean and then the war took him to Plattsburg and he became a captain in the Signal Corps. Demobilized a major, he was for three weeks director of the Carnegie Institute for experimental evolution. Then he went to the University of Maine and his work there won him his new post.

Fuller to Be Guest

Governor Fuller will be a guest of the Willing Workers of the First Baptist Church of Malden, his home church, the evening of September 28, on the occasion of the annual men's night.

BIRTH CONTROL TALK TONIGHT

Repeal of the existing birth control law in Massachusetts will be urged by Mrs. Margaret Sanger of New York, nationally known birth control literature distribution advocate, in a debate in Faneuil Hall tonight.

Her opponent in the debate will be Winter Russell of New York, who will argue against repealing the law.

A permit for the debate was issued by Public Building Supt. John P. Englert on application of John R. Codman of the local branch of the American Civil Liberties Union.

The union earned the severe disfavor of Mayor Curley last Winter by holding a largely attended mass meeting in the Old South Meeting house.

The meeting evolved into a protest meeting against what was termed as "repressive measures" of city officials against freedom of speech.

Leo Fall Is Dead

Vienna, Sept. 16 (I.N.S.).—Leo Fall, the well-known musical composer, died today.

ITALIAN TENOR GETS OVATION

By MOSES SMITH

A sensational debut featured the second night of the stay of the San Carlo Opera Company at the Boston Opera House. Singing for the first time in Boston, Franco Tafuro, a new tenor just brought over to America from Italy by Fortune Gallo, director of the company, received a remarkable ovation. He was cast in the role of "Cavaradossi in "La Tosca," and the enthusiasm for his singing reached its height when the audience compelled a repeat of his aria in the third act.

There is no doubt that the San Carlo Company has a real find in Mr. Tafuro. He has a voice of lovely quality, and he uses it admirably.

Another good-sized audience, which included a goodly sprinkling of society, turned out for Puccini's swiftly music-drama.

Bianaca Saroya sang in a voice that showed a great gain in quality. Dramatically and emotionally her work was satisfying, too. The rest of the cast, including Mario Valle as Scarpia, the chief of police, consisted of singers familiar to the Boston public, but all hands united to a much more effective ensemble than we have yet received from the San Carlo Company.

Following the opera there was a group of exceedingly interesting dances by the Pavley-Oukrainsky Ballet, two of which featured Andreas Pavley.

This afternoon Humerdinck's fairy opera, "Hansel and Gretel" will be presented, and this evening, "Rigoletto" is the feature.

S. L. CROMWELL BANKER, DIES OF INJURIES

Ex-Head of New York Stock Exchange Fatally Hurt in Fall From Horse

New York, Sept. 17 (A.P.)—Seymour L. Cromwell, former president of the New York Stock Exchange, and widely-known banker and broker, is dead at his home at Bernardsville, N. J., of injuries received when he fell from a horse more than a week ago.

Mr. Cromwell retired from the presidency of the Stock Exchange in May of last year. He had held the presidency for three years. As a member of the firm of Carlisle, Mellick & Co. he continued actively in the brokerage business.

As a tribute to its former president, the New York Stock Exchange suspended trading for several minutes while President E. H. H. Simmons read a brief eulogy of Mr. Cromwell.

Div. 31, A. O. H., to Celebrate 30th Birthday

Today is the 30th birthday anniversary of Division 31, A. O. H. The forming of Hibernian divisions was stimulated in New England by the visit of Charles Stewart Parnell, who spoke at the land league meeting.

The anniversary will be suitably observed by exercises to be held at the Columbus Club, Dorchester, tonight. Michael Donahue, Philadelphia, national president, and Dennis J. Slattery, Weymouth, State president, will speak at the banquet.

RODGERS WON'T PASS BUCK IN LOST FLIGHT

PN-9 No. 1 Chief Tells Honolulu He's Responsible; "Without Nerves!" Hub's Verdict

Honolulu, Sept. 16.—(A. P.)—Commander John Rodgers of the Naval Seaplane PN-9, No. 1, and his crew of four honor guests at a luncheon, told amid scenes of wildest enthusiasm the story of their cruise.

"In view of some criticisms that have been made," Rodgers said, "I wish to take this opportunity to state that control of this entire project was in my hands. Every arrangement and suggestion was mine subject to my approval and everything done met with my approval.

"With this control went responsibility therefor, and inevitably the responsibility if anything went wrong, must rest upon me."

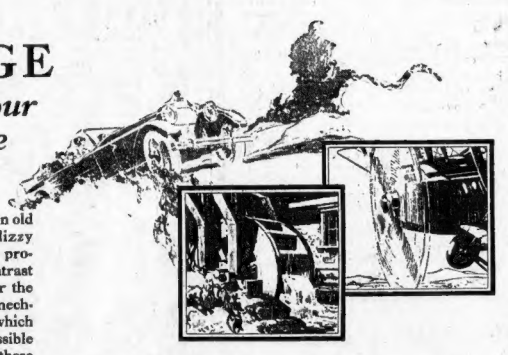
RANGE

. . . has your gasoline that?



THE lazy turning of an old mill-wheel. The dizzy whirl of an airplane propeller. What a contrast in speeds! Yet under the hood of your car is a mechanism—an engine—which revolves at every possible rate of speed between these typical extremes.

Now it runs slow, now swift—less than a hundred revolutions per minute one moment, two to three thousand the next! Surely the gasoline which can adapt itself to such a change of pace must be more than ordinary gasoline! It must have range!

Southern New England, served by the New Haven System, offers unusual opportunities for development—industrial, commercial and agricultural.

The New Haven System has organized an Industrial Development Committee, representing the Traffic, Operating, Real Estate and Engineering Departments, for the purpose of advancing such opportunities for development. Through this Committee the New Haven will be glad to assist any one who may desire to locate upon its line or in Southern New England and is seeking to co-operate with the business and commercial organizations of the various communities in forwarding New England's growth.

Inquiries or suggestions will receive prompt attention if directed to E. L. Taylor, Secretary, Industrial Development Committee, New Haven, Conn.

Tribesmen Set to Combat the Franco-Spanish Offensive and Attack Capital

Rabat, French Morocco, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—French troops have captured the mountain range of El Bibane, one of the Riffians' strongest positions.

Fez, French Morocco, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Information received here from the Spanish area of operations indicates that the rebel tribesmen are preparing to make a fresh attack on Tetuan, Spanish capital.

In the Taounat region a smartly-delivered offensive culminated in the capture of the old post of Menjaoua, the village of the same name and the heights of Amsen, together with the village of Archidane.

A big Franco-Spanish offensive, however, will be launched in the immediate future. French troops already are massed in the Guercan region and west of the Taza region, where the first attacks will be delivered. The forces of Abd-El-Krim appear determined to offer stout resistance.

Melilla, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Spanish aircraft from the Morro Nuevo Peninsula, in the Bay of Alhucemas, are bombing the rebel concentrations and gun emplacements at Cala Bonita, Cala Rocosa and Yebel Malmussi.

PROBABLY WILL ADMIT BRITISH COMMUNIST

Washington, Sept 16 (I.N.S.).—On the eve of the opening of the Inter-Parliamentary Union meeting the State Department today was confronted with another case involving the admission of a Communist, which in many respects surpasses in delicacy the Count Karolyi case.

Although beset by a storm of protest against permitting Shapurji Saklatvala, member of the British Parliament from London, to enter the United States, the department was expected to reverse its former position and allow the East Indian full privileges during the meeting of the aParliamentary Union.

PHONE PROTEST TONIGHT IN MALDEN

Housekeepers and Merchants in Mass Meeting Against the Rate Boost

telegraph division of the Department of Public Utilities.

WALDEN PLANS PROTEST

Housekeepers and merchants of Malden are to be given an opportunity to voice their protest against increased telephone rates in a meeting tonight under the auspices of the special committee appointed by the Common council to investigate the new rate schedule.

Tonight's meeting at Malden City hall will be the first formal protest made in that city against the extortionate tax authorized by the Public Utilities Commission.

Mrs. Gertrude McNulty, of No. 60 White street, East Boston, today sent to the Boston Evening American a petition of protest against the new rates signd by nearly fifty of her neighbors.

"We cannot conduct those services subject to the control of forty commissions."

This is a confession open and candid. It doesn't need words or meaning. It was made by the American Telephone & Telegraph Company. It has the tone of a surly child rebelling against correcting orders of a parent.

It shows that the American Telephone Company and its twenty-five subsidiary companies would much prefer not to be hampered by Public Utilities Commissions, in spite of the manner in which they dominate these commissions, as evidenced by the recent $8,640'000 rate increase steal granted by the very friendly and charitable Public Utilities Commission in Massachusetts.

A confidential letter issued by Mr. Thayer on behalf of the American company, reads:

PREPARE PUBLIC.

"We shall be sending you pretty soon a first draft of the annual report, which I would like to have you keep as confidential as possible until it is finally published, but you will have an opportunity to talk it over with your publicity people so as to prepare the public in advance for whatever in it might be likely to raise a discussion or comment.

"I am in hopes that it will be helpful and will not raise questions which will require a lot of explanation with the commissions and the public.

"What we have tried to do is to bring out a little more strongly the fact that the kind of organization we have, founded on the license contract, is an important part of a nation-wide service and the only method of conducting such a service under the State laws.

"We are going into the license contract more fully than usual, and I hope that what we say will serve as an outline and a background for our representation of the contract whenever we are called upon to discuss it.

"I am planning to tell the stockholders how much we receive in the 4½ per cent revenue and as nearly as we can estimate, what it costs us. We have held back on giving that information directly to the commissions because we do not want to admit their right to that information and the consequent right of objection to any of the items, as obviously we cannot conduct these services subject to the control of forty commissions, but we have no objections to their knowing the fact.

"I am not proposing to state it each year, but I have the feeling that if we give that information once for all and remove the mystery connected with it, that it will go a long way towards silencing any questions on that point."

Letter after letter in the confidential correspondence of the American company and its offspring reveal an unmistakable design to evade, conceal and suppress facts. The latest and most glaring instance of this policy locally was the first refusal of the American company to submit its books at the rate hearings before the Massachusetts Public Utilities Commission.

Further evidence of this corporation caution is shown in a letter sent by Mr. Elcon, which read:

WESTERN "MYSTERY."

"It seemed to me best to make no distinction in the advertisement between telephone apparatus and other supplies. Furthermore we consider it unwise to include in the advertisement a statement as to the Western Electric Company's earnings on its capital. As you are in the midst of a rate case in Maryland this percentage might be challenged with the result that it would be necessary to inject the Western Electric Company itself into the case or place you in an embarrassing position."

What was there about the Western Electric Company. Its relations with the American Company and its earnings as a subsidiary, that the telephone baron feared? More soft-pedal and evasion.

Luther W. Howes of Smith's Ferry, Holyoke, in a letter to the Boston Evening American offers proof to refute the claim of Commissioner Wells that rural phone rates have not been boosted as much as other service. Mr. Luther also submitted three bills showing how his telephone rates have jumped from $2.08 in 1915 to $4.25 under the new rates.

"I wish to add my protest to the telephone rate raise," writes Mr. Howes. "I am on a four-party line which they claim is two miles outside of their zone and so must pay $2 a month for mileage. I am enclosing a copy of the Holyoke Transcript in which Commissioner Wells in his reply to the Governor, states the rural phone rates have not been raised as much as other users.

"I enclose my first telephone bill of 1915, with total charge $2.08 for the service I am now getting. In 1919, $1.24 was tacked on for mileage, making a total of $3.36. On August 1 of the present year, the phone rate was made $2.25 with $2.00 for mileage, making a total of $4.25.

HOW RURAL RATES HAVE JUMPED

Luther W. Howes of Smith's Ferry, Holyoke, forwarded these of his telephone bills to the Boston Evening American to refute the statement of Commissioner Wells that rural rates were not boosted nearly so high as other lines of service. Howes is paying $4.25 under the increased rates for the same service on a 4-party line which he received for $2.08, in 1915.

Waterfront News

A new trans-Atlantic liner shows her nose in port on Sunday when the Transylvania comes to Cunard docks, East Boston, with almost 800 passengers aboard. She is en route from Glasgow and Moville with 102 saloon, 256 second cabin and 295 third class passengers.

Captain David W. Bone, an experienced navigator, is in charge of this new 17,000-tonner, which has just completed fitting out and trials. Every feature new to naval architecture is to be found in the Transylvania, a three-funned steamer. In her lists are a number of members of Caledonian clubs who left Boston in July for a Summer in Scotland.

Virtually all of the cargo of the steamer Kearney, which was damaged materially when she hit a reef off the Nova Scotian coast a few weeks ago, has been taken out of her holds and is today being loaded aboard the Bellflower for Glasgow. When discharge has been completed the Kearney will be towed to East Boston and drydocked for survey that bids for repairs may be received. It is believed it will cost more than $50,000 to repair her.

PHONE TALK TO 'DADDY' BRINGS DIVORCE

Widower Who Obtained Wife Through Ad Is Again Fancy Free

Worcester, Sept. 16.—There was a vaudeville gag once that drew a laugh. It was about the young man who asked his girl to become his wife. And she said: "Go see Daddy."

All right enough but the gag continues:

"But she knew that I knew her father was dead.
And she knew that I knew the life that he'd led,
So she knew that I knew what she meant when she said;
"Go see Daddy!"

HUSBAND LISTENED IN.

A new version was staged in the local divorce court, Mrs. Bertha Goss Miller, wife of Frederick R. Miller, packer of Boston, is no spiritualist. Yet Mr. Miller knew her father was dead. So Mr. Miller wondered what she meant when she said over the telephone: "Yes, Daddy, dear, I'll be right over."

He investigated, and the result is that he is free of all marital ties today.

REFUSED TO GIVE BAIL.

Miller was a widower and three years ago advertised for a wife. One applicant answered and he agreed to meet her in the Grand Central Station. They met. She threw her arms around his neck. He thought she worked too fast and went away from there.

Bertha Goss was the next. They met and were married, and Miller gave her $20 weekly of his salary, keeping but $10 himself.

Then the first applicant, the sudden one, sued for breach of promise, and when Miller was arrested, Bertha refused to give him money for bail. Then came the telephone conversation.

LONDON WON'T INSURE ANY MORE U. S. RUM-RUNNERS

London, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Owing to the increased risks of seizure by American prohibition agents along Rum Row and elsewhere, the London underwriters are refusing to insure whiskey shipments against losses due to confiscation. Insurance of liquor shipments to Canada and the West Indies, with a clause permitting discharge of the cargo at sea, however, continues to be issued, the present rate being from twenty to thirty shillings per hundred pounds.

WARNS OF COUNTERFEIT

$5 AND $20 BILLS IN HUB

Counterfeit $20 and $5 notes are in wide circulation, according to information made public today by Harry L. Barker, chief of the Boston bureau of the United States Secret Service, and of these a flock of "fives" are being distributed. This $5 note is on the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston. Although it is classed by the Federal authorities as a very good counterfeit, nevertheless it can be detected, they say, by a bewhiskered, starry look in the eyes of President Lincoln, and his over-"sturdy" whiskers."

BORAH OPPOSES EASING FRENCH DEBT TERMS

Tells President Coolidge That France Can Pay Better Great Britain

Washington, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—France's war debt to the United States must be settled without any reference whatever to the terms of agreement that nation may have reached with Great Britain, it was asserted today by Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah, member of the American debt commission.

Washington, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—Coincident with the departure from Paris of the French debt mission to the United States, Chairman Borah of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, at a conference with President Coolidge today opposed terms for France more liberal than those given Great Britain.

Meeting the President for first time in more than three months, Mr. Borah discussed as same length the debt situation and said later he would have something to say about the question on the floor of the Senate. Congressional sanction is needed for all funding agreements.

In the opinion of Senator Borah, Belgium is in a better position to meet such as were laid down in the Britain. He also declared that France should not be granted less ency as it had greater capacity to pay than th eBritish.

Why That Lame, Achy Back?

Is a bad back keeping you miserable? Do you get up lame and stiff; drag through the day tired, weak, nervous and depressed?

Then you should know that these ills are often due to faulty kidneys. Once the kidneys fail to rid the blood of impurities, there's a slow poisoning and upsetting of the whole system. Constant backache is apt to follow, with rheumatic twinges, headaches, dizziness and annoying bladder irregularities.

If you have reason to suspect your kidneys, use Doan's Pills. Doan's are for the kidneys only. They are recommended the world over. Ask your neighbor!

"Use Doan's," Say Boston Folks:

J. CORSON, retired mason, 214 D St., So. Boston, says: "I ever lifted and think I strained myself, for soon my kidneys showed signs of disorder. There wasn't a night I didn't have to get up to pass the kidney secretions. My back ached a great deal, and I got so I could hardly get up or down. The pains became more intense with each move I made. It didn't take Doan's Pills long to cure me completely."

MRS. EDWARD McDONNELL, 430 E. 5th St., So. Boston, says: "A cold settled in my kidneys and caused backache. When I swept sharp pains took me in my back. My kidneys acted too often, and my feet blotted badly. I also had pains in the back of my head. I purchased Doan's Pills at Liggett's Drug Store, and two boxes cured me."

NOTED PASTOR DIES SUDDENLY IN FALL RIVER

Rt. Rev. Monsignor Prevost a Victim of Acute Indigestion

Fall River, Sept. 16 (A.P.)—The Rt. Rev. Monsignor Jean Alfred Prevost, for thirty-seven years pastor of the Church of Notre Dame de Lourdes in this city, died suddenly today of an attack of acute indigestion, aged seventy-six years.

He was born in St. Charles, P. Q., and graduated at Montreal College in that province. Before coming to Fall River, in September, 1885, he served as curate in Woonsocket and also was for two years a curate at the Sacred Heart Church in New Bedford.

During his pastorate here he had been instrumental in building a new church, rectory, college and orphanage and had made Notre Dame one of the leading French-speaking parishes in New England.

He served several years on the Fall River School Committee.

In 1906 he was appointed a domestic prelate by Pope Pius X, and vested with the title of Monsignor. Two of his surviving brothers are the Rev. Charles Prevost, a pastor at Bennington, Vt., and the Rev. Louis Prevost of the Sacred Heart Church, New Bedford.

SENSATIONAL CHARGES AT HERESY TRIAL

Flint, Mich., Sept. 16 (A.P.)—Charges of heresy against Dr. Lynn Harold Hough, Detroit Methodist Episcopal pastor, and former president of Northwestern University, were hard by a ministrial committee of the Detroit conference of the church.

In presenting his charges, Dr. Levi Bird said Dr. Hough in a sermon placed Jesus Christ and Charles Darwin on an equality, assailed integrity of the scriptures, degraded the person of Jesus, discredited the chastity of Mary, his mother, made of God a liar and uttered other heresies.

Dr. Bird declared he had received a call from God to preach against encroachments of the evolution theory upon religion and told of a vision he had received in which God had shown him the doctrine of evolution was going to split the church in two.

Crushed to Death in Garage

Newark, N. J., Sept. 16 (A.P.)—Arthur Greenfield, forty-seven, of Kearny, was crushed fatally between an automobile and a garage wall. Greenfield had just entered the garage with his truck when the engine stalled. Dismounting, he cranked the machine, and the truck started suddenly, pinning him to the wall.

HERO FIREMAN TELLS HOW HE SAVED FOUR

Winner of Boston American Diamond Medal Describes Pickwick Experiences

This is the story of how "Larry" Doyle of Ladder 8, formerly of the Gas and Flames Regiment in France, saved four lives on the morning of the Fourth of July at the scene of the Pickwick Club disaster in Beach street, was cited by his company commander and was recommended by the Board of Merit of the Boston fire department as the performer of the "most meritorious act" within a six months' period and the one most deserving of a Boston Evening American Diamond Medal.

Ladderman Doyle will be decorated with the medal at the Parkman Bandstand on Boston Common one week from today. Among the speakers will be Mayor Curley, Fire Commissioner Theodore A. Glynn and Editor James T. Williams of the Evening American. There will be a concert and the Hon. Alfred Davenport will preside.

By EDWARD F. ("Larry") DOYLE.

My company shares the fire house in Fort Hill Square with Engine 25, Captain Flannagan; and Tower 1, under Lieutenant Craig. My own outfit is Ladder 8, under Lieutenant McDonald.

There are 14 men in our company and when the first alarm from Box 1471 was rung in at about 3 o'clock in the morning of July 4, there were 8 of us on duty.

Arriving in Beach street, I heard my Lieutenant receive the first order from the Chief: "Have your men get together all the axes, saws and wrecking appliances available."

I saw other men of Ladder 8 working upon a woman, one of whose legs was hanging from the first floor ceiling. My Lieutenant was holding a light for them.

OUT ALIVE.

Unable to get to them, I decided to take a look at the second floor and found a man and a woman there. I got them out alive, and immediately plunged further in and found a man bent over a small table and held there because the ceiling had fallen upon his back.

In much the same way the woman was pinioned against the table next to him.

I wriggled the man loose from his imprisonment and, when he fell limp to the floor, picked him up and carried him over to Lieutenant Brown at the window-sill, who, with other members of Ladder 8, lowered him head first to the street. Then I went back to get the woman.

She was gone. I never saw her again.

Down in the pit we heard a voice, the voice of some one buried under all that stuff, and we used jacks to raise the debris of the collapsed floors, and with the jack in position I crawled in and found a man lying with his back to me.

I brought one of the City Hospital surgeons, and later I crawled back to him with Father Rowe of St. James' Church. We got this man out alive.

Going back again I heard a voice faintly calling for help.

HELD LIKE VISE.

He was in a standing position, this man. "I guess I am all right," he said, "but my legs are held in this wreckage like a vise. I cannot move them." This was Oscar Sheba, the Pleasant street porter.

I put the rope under Sheba's arms, but it moved a trifle and fell. One of his legs was caught by a plank. I sawed the plank away, removed the rope from Sheba's body and tied it around his legs. Then I put the rope under his armpits again and gave the signal to "pull!"

During all my time in the debris I was frightened only once, but that fright will serve me for years. The man standing on his head, whom I thought dead, spoke.

This was Richard Lovejoy of Everett.

"Hey!" says Lovejoy, "ain't you going to get ME out of here?"

WHERE HEROISM WON GUERDON

The above photo shows the ruins of the Pickwick Club, amidst which Fireman Edward "Larry" Doyle worked so heroically, the morning of the Fourth of July, in rescuing victims at the risk of his life that he was selected for the award of the Boston Evening American Diamond Medal.

BOY HOBOES FLOCK INTO BROCKTON

Brockton, Sept. 16.—This city seems to be a mecca for wandering boys. In the past 24 hours the police have picked up four youths, and all are being held for their parents. The four are: Thaddeus Sokolowski, 15, of No. 39 Macombe court, New York; Michael Grudinski, 17, of Cambridge, Penn.; Joseph Kozah, 13, of No. 18 Beach street, Charlestown, and Alex Sawanda, 13, of No. 17 Beach street, Charlestown. All told the police they wanted to see the world. The only one of the four to have any money was Grudinski, who had $1.70 when he left his home.

POLISH MINISTER TO U. S. QUITS; SUCCESSOR NAMED

Washington, Sept. 16 (A.P.)—Dr. Wladyslaw Wroblewski, Polish minister to Washington, has resigned. The name of his successor has been submitted to the State Department, but will not be made public here. Dr. Wroblewski formerly was minister to London and was transferred here in November 1922. He has been absent from his post since June.

WIDE COMMENT ON REPORT OF CHURCH BODY

Unbiased Study Worry to Rabid Prohibitionists and Other Reformers

Washington, Sept. 16.—Few reports from an investigating body have caused the widespread interest and comment as has the finding of the research and aid department of the Federated Council of Churches. The unbiased report gives decided worry to rabid prohibitionists and other reformers.

Now the report states that a crime wave actually exists in this country regardless of the denials of reform heads and police chiefs. But the investigators do not find that prohibition has caused said wave, while the fact "that prohibition has had no effect in curbing crime gives food for serious thought."

The report became something of a boomerang on the drys when it stated recently that prohibition had proved not wholly a blessing, and that there was more drinking among minors in the present day than in the days before Volstead achieved fame.

EUROPEAN MINERS MOVE TO AID U. S. STRIKERS

Brussels, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—A plan to support the striking American coal miners by preventing the exportation of Belgian coal to the United States is on the program of the International Miners' Conference, opening here today. This and the crises in the Belgian, German and British coal industries are among the leading topics for discussion. It is proposed to exert pressure on the British mine owners and government by inducing the miners in the Ruhr Valley of Germany to accept a reduction in wages, thus facilitating German competition with British coal.

RESCUE FIVE FROM FIRE IN CHURCH RECTORY

Philadelphia, Sept. 16 (A.P.)—Fire in the rectory of St. Francis of Assisi's Roman Catholic Church today trapped an assistant rector, three domestics and a sexton, who had to be assisted from the burning building by ladders. The Rev. Jeremiah D. Nevin, rector, was forced to flee in bare feet and scanty attire, but suffered only slightly from exposure. The Rev. Daniel J. Dunne, assistant rector, and Misses Margaret Gillespie, Nellie McCauley and Mary Jenkins, domestics, were rescued by neighbors and firemen. Damage to the rectory was slight.

FINDS BABY, ALSO WIFE, WITH "ANOTHER MAN"

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 16 (I.N.S.).—County police today recovered the missing 18-months-old daughter of Raymond Burroughs, of Cincinnati, under circumstances revealing one of the weirdest eternal triangles on record. The child, thought to have been drowned in the Chattahoochie River, was found at the home of a Cook County farmer. At the same time Burroughs discovered his wife there in company with a man who gave his name as J. H. Allgeyer, of Cincinnati.

A Story that Bares the Soul of a Woman, Twice Cheated Out of a Love She Is Forced to Steal

JERROLD FREYNE, a promising young author who has written a book dealing coldly and calmly with love and marriage, is appointed to a clerkship in the Foreign Legation. ELSPETH VOICEY, a cold-sweet daughter of aristocracy, is his promised bride. While wedding plans are under discussion, Jerrold meets GERDA MASKLYN, wife of his friend. He is stricken by her strange beauty and by her bewitching appeal of person. Immediately he is given a new interpretation of love, vastly different from that he put into his book. The situation is rapidly getting beyond his control, and he finds his cultured philosophy being pushed aside by a feeling blissfully new to him.

CHAPTER XVI.

Copyright 1925 by Eric Maschwitz

WHEN Jerrold arrived at the Legation it was to find a smile in the eyes of his companions in the Chancery.

"Sorry to be late, Raven."

Ravensholme laughed. "That's all right. There's not much doing this morning. The bag hasn't arrived."

"Good." Jerrold sat down at his desk. "Terence, you grinning idiot, say something or I'll go mad. Ask me where I've been."

"Not at home, anyway." Garfield told him. "I looked in on my way down here."

"No, I've only just got back. We had an accident. Mrs Masklyn was thrown off and hurt her leg. By the way, can I get a car sent out for her?"

"Ask Jimmy," Garfield replied. "He's in league with the underworld here. He'll produce you a Rolls Royce from up his sleeve."

Jerrold crossed the courtyard to the lodge.

"A motor, sir? Why, of course. I'll 'ave one sent right away. Sir Charles 'as been askin' for you, Mr Freyne, said I was to tell you to go in and see 'im some time before eleven."

Jerrold thanked him. "Righto, Jimmy. I'll go in now. Tell them to send the car at once, call for the lady at the ... and bring her back to the Anastasiusstrasse. I'll settle the bill."

The porter nodded and, setting a bowler hat on his ... head, made off down the Szeparys-gasse.

Jerrold went to Sir Charles, whom he found in his study at the back of the house.

"Morning, Freyne," said the Minister, who was still in carpet slippers.

"Good morning, Sir Charles. You wanted to see me?"

"Yes ... there are some friends of yours here."

"Sir Alan and Lady B..."

The old man nodded. "There was

GET BUSY; SECURE AUTO FOR 2 CENTS

YOU HAVE THE SAME CHANCE AS ANYBODY ELSE; ACT BEFORE IT IS TOO LATE

The Boston Evening American is in possession of three American [illegible] high grade, brand new, first class automobiles, valued at $5,462.40, which it wishes to sell for 6 cents, cash.

Two cents [illegible] for new motor cars [illegible] coach.

[illegible]

Who wants them?

[illegible]

First: A 5 passenger Packard 6 sedan, delivery value $2,844.00.

For sale for 2 cents!

Second: A Master 6 Buick sedan with extra tire and bumpers, regular price $1,705.50.

Evening American price for the Buick, 2 cents!

Third: An Essex coach, fully equipped, worth $912.90, if it's worth a cent.

Our price for the Essex, 2 cents!

[illegible]

A great [illegible] letters have been [illegible] competition for the automobiles, and more are coming in with every mail.

The Boston Evening American wants [illegible] more, more of them. The Editor will not [illegible] cars [illegible] heard from a substantial percentage of his readers.

In order to obtain one of these [illegible] the Packard, the Buick or the Essex for only 2 cents, it is necessary that you first write a letter on the subject "Why I Like the Boston Evening American."

That shouldn't be difficult. YOU know why you prefer the Boston Evening American, why you buy it every day, why you pass up the other newspapers and insist upon this one.

Why is it?

Tell us, in a helpful letter of not more than 250 words.

Write on one side of the paper.

Give your own name and address.

DON'T SEND MONEY.

Send the letter to "Mr. Packard Buick Essex," in care of the Boston Evening American, No. 5 Winthrop square, Boston, Mass.

SEND NO MONEY WITH YOUR LETTER. THERE IS NO CALL FOR IT. SOME LETTER-WRITERS HAVE BEEN ENCLOSING 2 CENTS WITH THEIR CONTEST LETTERS. THEY SHOULD NOT HAVE DONE SO.

Only three contestants are to be asked for money in connection with this wonderful competition. The writers of the three letters the judges consider the best three, of all the letters received, will be asked to pay 2 cents each for one of the contest automobiles.

The writer of the Best Letter will be given his (or her) choice of the motor cars, Packard, Buick, Essex, but he or she MUST pay 2 cents for it.

The person who writes the Second Best Letter will select one of the two cars which remain, but MUST pay 2 cents for it.

And likewise in the case of the third car which will go to the writer of the letter adjudged Third in Merit. That writer must pay 2 cents for the third AND LAST car.

CONTEST IS UNIQUE.

No one else is called upon for a penny. Unique in still another respect: this is the only newspaper contest in the history of the United States of America in which ONLY

And they pay——the winners pay——3 cents apiece!

For a $2,844 Packard sedan, a $1,705.50 Buick sedan, or a $912.90 Essex coach.

"Well, of all the contests!"

"And do they really mean it?"

Ab-so-lute-ly!

Here's the proposition:

More than 250,000 New Englanders choose the Boston Evening American every day as the paper to take home with them.

Why?

The Editor wants to know, wants so much to know what he is about to pay $5,462.34 to find out.

The total value of the cars is $5,462.40 but we'll get six cents back.

Why do YOU buy the Boston Evening American in preference to any other evening newspaper?

News columns? B. C. Forbes? The editorial page? Arthur Brisbane's "Today"? The scientific articles of Garrett P. Serviss and other distinguished writers? The sports pages? Pictures, cartoons, etc.?

If you can write the most helpful letter of all that are received on the subject "Why I Like the Boston Evening American," this newspaper will ask you to take your pick of the three automobiles.

Second best letter wins second choice of cars.

Third best letter takes the remaining car.

Thousands of persons will read an offer like this and pass it up. Some will be suspicious of it. Once upon a time there was a man who stood at 40th street and Broadway, offering dollar bills to anyone at 50 cents each. It took him three hours to dispose of seven of them. New Yorkers were too smart to fall for such stuff.

MAKE LETTERS HELPFUL.

Please understand that what the Editor is looking for is the MOST HELPFUL letter. Someone who takes part in this contest is certain to say or write something very helpful from the editorial point of view.

That person may not be at all "literary," may be a most indifferent penman, but will write plainly, will send a neat letter, will have an idea. Ideas are worth something. How much, for example, do you suppose such an idea as this of the "Automobiles for Sale" was worth? You'd be surprised!

So, do come in! Let us hear from all of you. The more the merrier. There are few rules. Write your own name and address carefully in the upper left hand corner of your manuscript. Write on one side of the paper only. Be sure to stay within 250 words. Mail your letter to "Mr. Packard Buick Essex," No. 5 Winthrop square, Boston, Mass.

Anyone may take part in this contest and win even the first of the cars, regardless of age, sex or residence. Send no money. There is no entrance fee. There isn't a blessed thing to do but write a letter, on "Why I Like the Boston Evening American."

If you do not want an automobile for 2 cents, it stands to reason you will NOT write a letter.

Sept. 9—Beat on the sentencing of Theresa Duggan, blackmail lure, to five years and a day.

Sept. 10—The American was first with the story of the parents of Helen Wilder winning a race with death from Colorado to Fitchburg. On the same day the American beat the town on Judge Ahern's suit for his daughter, and the story of the revocation of the license of Chief Engineer John A. Grant of the steamer Mackinac.

Sept. 11—First story of the $15,000 Smith, Patterson jewelry robbery appeared in the American. On the same day also the American ran the first story of the reopening of the Tong wars.

Sept. 13—First story of the attempted suicide of Harry Kirby, Maine murderer. Also first story on his death, some hours later. On the same day the American ran the first story of the expose of the Worcester drug traffic, and the attempted suicide of J. Harry Boardman, Lowell embezzler. Also the American carried an exclusive story of the illness of Dr. Charles W. Eliot, and the beating in his own office of Attorney J. A. Dorsey.

BABE ADAMS MAY SHOW ONLY IN RELIEF WORK

JOHNSON CARDED TO STAR IN SERIES

By JOHN V. REGER

The 1925 World series will be unique in that it will bring together as active participants two of the oldest pitchers, in point of service, in the major leagues—Walter Johnson and Charles ("Babe") Adams.

Both joined their teams in the late season of 1907 and quickly raced to stardom. Both were outstanding heroes in the single World Series in which they took part. Johnson is thirty eight years old; Adams forty-two.

Adams was more fortunate than Johnson in reaching the peak, for he had to wait only two years before he acquired fame in winning three games of the series for the Pirates against Detroit.

Johnson had to serve a long, weary period of seventeen seasons before he came into the classic. All this time he was setting new records in games won, strike-outs and shut-outs. As the years passed the universal wail of the fans of the nation was that they couldn't see him in a World Series.

When at last his chance came, Johnson was no longer the terror to opposing batsmen he had been throughout most of his career. His loss of two games in the series caused general mourning, but the great triumph of his life came in the seventh and crucial game of the series.

After three preceding pitchers had vainly attempted to stem the Giants' onrush, Johnson was injected into the game in the eighth inning and received credit for the victory which came in the twelfth.

Adams' World Series triumph was considerably more impressive. He held Detroit to six hits in each of the three games he won and achieved a shut-out in the last game. The credit was all his, for no other pitcher appeared in these games.

Now Adams comes to the fore again as a sort of pitcher-emeritus, while his rival is still vigorous, and retains most of his pitching art. The Pirate veteran has won 6, lost 5 this season; the Senators' star has won 3, lost 5.

It is not probable Adams will be started in a game this year, but will be given his chance as a relief pitcher. Johnson, however, will be looked to to bear the big brunt of the battle for the present world champions.

TWO MORE REGULARS FOR N. Y. U. ELEVEN

New York, Sept. 16.—Encouraging was the return of two more regulars of the 1924 Green and White eleven in the persons of Alfred Toth tackle from Philadelphia, Pa., and George Murphy, guard, formerly of All Hallows Institute, New York city. Toth may be at either a guard or tackle berth and his 187 pounds are sorely needed in a line which [illegible] candidates without any respect to past experience in an effort to [illegible] McCarthy is shifting all his hit on the best possible forward wall.

Brockton Ready for Great Grid Season

By EDDIE DONDERO

Making predictions about schoolboy football teams is rather a risky proposition, but after watching the powerful Brockton High football machine at one of their recent workouts, it is safe to say that Roberts-coached young-sters look like the champions of the scholastic world.

There are numbers 104 candidates. There are five teams and a freshman brigade at the Shoe City and it takes a pretty good football player to win a regular assignment on either team. During the off season most of these lads swing a pick and shovel, just to keep in shape.

Eddie Dondero

"Thanks to the astonishing work of Coach Roberts" declared Ex Mayor Frank Manning, who is one of the many rooters Brockton has, "one of the few schoolboy teams that almost always wins. The best things look now, they will be found on the gridiron this season.

Brockton opens its season with Medford at the Keith Memorial Field a week from Saturday. Brockton fans started last June to talk about how Brockton was going to win. The Shoe City natives pass Medford one of their most ser[illegible]

Runyon Says:

Ketchel Bet His End. Had Real Confidence. Now the Lads Just Talk. Betting Type Extinct.

By DAMON RUNYON

Damon Runyon

BEFORE every pugilistic contest in which the principals are of sufficient importance we read in the public prints a statement from each of the fighters, setting forth the reasons why he will win.

I was never in better health than each of them says he is and I expect to look Mr. Jim Jeffries square in the eye.

It is an old established fact that persons in good health seldom express that opinion of themselves because they are afraid that somebody will take them at their word.

I have personally known of a few instances of pugilists who made a public display of their confidence when they had their own money, in large or small amounts.

I know of no instance where Tad Jones came out in the Yale Field House and announced that he was going to beat Harvard. Nor do I recall ever hearing of a case where Percy Haughton, before the Harvard-Yale game, declared that he was going to trim the Elis.

It was a comparatively common practice in the old days of the Madison Square Garden when Tom Sharkey and Kid McCoy were matched for the world's championship, for each of them to declare that he was going to knock the other out in a certain round, and then proceed to do it.

Of all the fighters of the current era I know of but one who ever has a bet on himself when he goes to the post. That is Harry Wills, who will not only bet on himself but will bet big money on himself when he goes into a ring. He had a bet on Paul Berlenbach when the latter fought Jack Delaney, and he has been known to bet on Greb when Greb had a fight coming, and I never knew Wills to lose a bet.

I do not know the weight lore of nowadays, but I remember as an example that Jeffries was a 7 to 5 favorite over Fitzsimmons when Fitz weighed 167 pounds, and Jeffries 227 pounds.

Pittsburgh, Sept. 16 (A.P.).—John H. Wagner was runner up in a three-cornered contest for the nomination. Robert H. Braun, chief of Allegheny County detectives, having a lead of more than three to one over the former Pirate star in returns from almost half of the county's 1,396 precincts.

The success of White Owls is no accident from that of outstanding intimes which have taken the lead by giving far greater value at smaller cost per sale and depending upon huge volume for ultimate return.

There are many examples of the soundness of this principle but in the cigar field, none so marked as White Owls.

And never did this policy work to greater benefit to the smoking public than in the White Owls that are being smoked today. The constant patronage of real cigar judges who make necessary enormous production of a million a day has enabled us to purchase so heavily of the finest crop of tobacco in years that everywhere smokers are saying, White Owls are tasting better than ever."

Sweeter tasting, more mellow than ever, White Owls are, beyond doubt, the greatest cigar value 10¢ can buy. Try them today . . . Then you'll understandwhy White Owl is the cigar of a million friends. You'll like it.

Just plain business

The million-a-day popularity of White Owls results from the sound business principle of small profit and greater volume. And, now, tobacco from the sweetest, mellowest crop in years has made them greater value than ever.

Miss Angela O'Brien, who ... the violin soloist on WNAC ... night.

At WNAC

Two sprightly members of the chorus of "My Girl," now playing at the Wilbur Theatre will make a return appearance to Station WNAC, the Shepard Stores, on Thursday evening at 7:05. These two young ladies, Ann Kelly and Barbara Grace, will sing a number of songs in their own little way. Miss Grace will play an accompaniment on the uke, and also play a number of uke solos.

LOCAL RADIO TONIGHT

The Beethoven Trio, which plays at Station WNAC, The Shepard Stores, tonight at 8:00 p.m., is widely known to radio fans who listen to this Boston station. The trio is instrumental and its members are popular in Lowell musical circles.

Angelo O'Brien, the violinist of the group, has planned a program with a happy combination of the popular and classical. Bernice Russell plays the cello, and Ella Reilly Tove is pianist. The trio plans a number of group selections and also many solo numbers.

ACTORS ON WBZ.

"A Half Hour of Shakespeare" with Henry Jewett, the feature attraction on the Westinghouse Radio Station program tonight, will attract listeners interested in drama, especially Shakespearian, to the WBZ wave at 9:30 o'clock. Mr. Jewett, who played with Richard Mansfield in "Arms and the Man," the first short play ever produced in America, is widely known in Boston as a Shakespearian actor. He has been engaged in repertory for the past eight years and is well qualified to talk on England's greatest dramatist and poet.

NATURE STORIES

The younger members of WBZ's audience will be pleased to learn that beginning with his broadcast tonight at 7:30 o'clock, Thornton W. Burgess, nationally prominent naturalist and nature-story author, will resume his weekly schedule. The noted radio entertainer plans to introduce to the Radio League during his weekly broadcasts persons of national prominence in the nature field.

HEBREW 'Y' PICK BORUCHOFF

Raphael R. Boruchoff of Malden again was elected to lead the associated chapters of the New England Young Men's and Young Women's Hebrew Associations. This is Boruchoff's second term. Headquarters are in the Carney Building, Tremont street, Boston.

In order to avoid conflict with the coming campaign to be launched by the Federated Jewish Charities the drive for Palestine will be held over. The New England Keren Hayesod, of which Robert Silverman is director, issued the following statement:

"As a result of a conference between Albert W. Kaffenburgh, president of the Federated Jewish Charities; Maurice B. Hexter, executive director; Albert Hurwitz, chairman of the New England Keren Hayesod; Isaac Harris, chairman of the $250,000 Keren Hayesod campaign, and Robert Silverman, regional director, it was agreed that the Boston Keren Hayesod campaign be postponed until October 19, and the drive for the Federated Jewish Charities to be held the first two weeks in October.

"We urge all our friends and workers to lend their whole-hearted support to the forthcoming drive of the Federated Jewish Charities."

The Young Hebrew Congregation of the Young Hebrew Society will conduct a young people's service during the high holidays at the Aperion, No. 35 Intervale street, Roxbury. L. Ginsburg, No. 7 Westminster road, Roxbury, is in charge.

Rabbi Moses Klebanov was installed as rabbi of the Congregation Torahs Moshe, Roxbury, by Hyman Weinberg, president of the congregation. He will officiate for the high holidays. He is a well known scholar, having served as rabbi for over thirty years in great Jewish centers of Europe.

MARTHA LEE'S RADIO CHAT

RADIO CHAT—STATION WNAC THE SHEPARD STORES

By Martha Lee

USEFUL BANANA AGAIN

YESTERDAY when I was coming out of the Chauncy street entrance of the subway, I was interested to see a well dressed gentleman standing before the window of a grocery store, leisurely peeling and eating a large red banana, while his car and chauffeur waited for him at the curb. He seemed to be so thoroughly enjoying every bite of the luscious ripe fruit that I was reminded of some banana recipes I've been saving for you, and that I hope you will enjoy.

Bananas, you know, contain the same amount of nourishment as an egg and can be digested by the most delicate stomach if they are allowed to ripen until brown spots appear on the skin. Bananas that have been ripened artificially by our fruit dealers may look yellow but the fruit often has an unripe taste. If you will let them stand a few days you will notice that the fruit becomes softened and the sugary taste is more apparent, which means that the indigestible starches have been changed to sugar. Be sure when eating bananas that they do not slip down the red lane before your grinders have a good chance at them.

The first recipe I have for you is for banana griddle cakes and I think you will find them popular with your family, especially if you introduce them some crisp Fall morning.

Recipe No. 1623

BANANA GRIDDLE CAKES.

1½ cups flour.
1 cup banana pulp.
1 cup milk (sour).
1 egg.
2 tbsps. sugar.
1 tsp. soda.
½ tsp. salt.
1 tbsp. melted shortening

Mix and sift the dry ingredients. Add milk slowly and then the beaten egg. Beat until smooth (about 1 minute). Add melted shortening, beat 1 minute and cook as directed.

Next, I have a simple banana dessert called mock strawberries, and you'll be surprised how much it resembles that fruit:

Recipe No. 1623

MOCK STRAWBERRIES.

4 bananas.
2 cups orange juice.
4 tbsps. cream.

Peel bananas in serving dish, mash to a pulp with a silver fork. Add orange juice gradually. When all the juice is added and the mixture smooth, add cream and mix well. Chill before serving. A little red coloring may be added.

And the always popular banana pie:

Recipe No. 1627

BANANA PIE.

Line a deep plate with pie crust and bake. When cool fill with banana filling. Cream butter the size of a walnut with a small cup of sugar, add the yolks of 2 well beaten eggs. Add 2 tbsps. cornstarch dissolved in as much cold water, 1 large cup hot water. Cook in a double boiler. When removed, after it thickens, add 1 tsp. vanilla. When this has cooled place slices of bananas in crust alternate with mixture until filled. Make a meringue of 2 well beaten whites of eggs sweetened with a tablespoon of confectioner's sugar. Place over pie and let brown in oven. Serve cold.

And if you will try this next recipe you will be able to use up some of your stale cake crumbs, and at the same time make a delicious dessert.

Recipe No. 1625

BANANA PUDDING

1 cup stale sponge cake crumbs.
2 cups milk.
½ cup banana pulp.
⅓ cup sugar.
⅛ tsp. salt.
½ tbsp. lemon juice.
1 tsp. vanilla.
2 eggs.

Scald milk, pour over cake crumbs, cover, let stand ½ hour and rub through a sieve. Add bananas which have been rubbed through a sieve, sugar, salt, lemon juice, vanilla and eggs, slightly beaten. Turn into buttered individual moulds, set in a pan of hot water. Bake until firm. Remove from oven and let stand 5 minutes. Turn out and serve with thin boiled custard.

SPECIAL EQUIPMENT AT WRNY STATION

Station WRNY has inaugurated a new system in testing out bands and orchestras for regular bookings and stations. Mr. Willets, the chief engineer of the station, has ... equipment where ... the orchestra ... in the absence of the musical director. By means of a special ... the entire audition of the band or orchestra is taken down on a special phonograph record, which may be heard by the musical director on his return from an outside call.

The various bands and orchestras appearing at the station are taken down on records and the records are filed, and when an orchestra is desired by a musical director all he has to do is to go to his record file and he cannot only get the information on the orchestra in question but also he can actually hear them play, although they may be scattered to the four quarters of the city.

A Bad Mistake

Recently Arthur Bagley, director of the Metropolitan Health Exercises, which are broadcast every morning from WEAF, made an error in announcing the time. He announced the correct time as 7:14¾ when actually it was 7:29¼. When he discovered his mistake a little later he corrected the error, but the damage had been done. The following day he received a letter from an irate lady exerciser, who declared she had missed her morning train because of him.

The ripe and mellow brown of healthful sweetness

CRUNCHY nuts are best when browned and opened by frost. Oven heat browns hot biscuit to crumbly deliciousness. Normal room temperature adds to bananas the mellow brown spots that mean delicious ripeness. Buy them by the dozen. Let them ripen in a bowl or dish. When the last trace of green is gone and the skin is flecked with brown, you can taste the sweet deliciousness that is a really ripe banana.

BANANA MOUSSE

Mix 1 cup sugar and 1 cup water. Bring to boiling point and pour the syrup over 4 eggs, beaten. Cook over hot water until thick, stirring constantly. Cool. Fold in 1 pint cream, whipped. Press ripe bananas through sieve to make 1 cup banana pulp. Fold banana pulp into whipped cream mixture. Pour into mold, and adjust cover tightly over waxed paper. Pack in 2 parts ice and 1 part rock salt 4 hours. Unmold on appropriate plate, and garnish with whipped cream and cherries.

DAILY SHORT STORY

LOADED DICE

By Maria Luttrell

"I DON'T dislike you," he said ... [illegible] ... sex instinct. ... [illegible] ... hated women. I don't know why, but it's true.

[illegible]

Great Mistake

"What do you mean by that?" she found the voice to ask.

"Just what I said. I made a great mistake but I have a fine sense of duty. I drove a bad bargain but I am honorable enough to stick it out to the bitter end. In the first place I've always had a fetish for black ... [illegible] ... her tears ... to take a delight in ... a certain degree of distress ... a ride with him, a bunch of roses or a ... of her favorite candy. And she had always met him more than halfway. She loved him with utter abandon.

She pushed back her chair and ... [illegible] ...

Said Goodbye

[illegible] ... She set her house in order and dressing herself carefully she started to town to see a lawyer. She was going to get a divorce. As far as she was concerned she was ... to help him ... in marrying her. She was going to set him free to ... his fetish for black haired women.

"You're ... she heard a happy voice exclaim. "And you're going to lunch with me."

She felt a warm hand on her arm. Looked around. Into the smiling eyes of Leslie Mo... the big ... hero of her college days.

"Where did you come from?" She forgot her tragedy for the moment. She was so delighted to see her old friend.

"Just opened up offices in the building. Always said I would come back home when I had made enough to take things easy. Home ... Come on to lunch with me! No excuse! ... and I just can't eat ... alone."

Over the Table

"I—I have an important errand."

"Let it wait," he urged, turning her around and escorting her out to a taxi. "Where'll it be? Finest place in town."

He faced her over a little flower laden table. "This is good," he told her enthusiastically. "Now, tell me all about yourself and old Tom! ... in the stress of life when I feel my ideals and illusions slipping away I just think of you and Tom. That's one happy marriage out of the old crowd. I always tell everybody. Tom's a good scout! I remember the night he waked me up to tell me you had promised to marry him. He never slept a wink. I wanted to throw him out. We were keeping bachelor quarters ... You remember. Tom mooned around until we wanted to kill him. He never did love anyone but you, I know. We were thick as thieves from knee pants days. I've never married, you know. Love all the women but I just never happened to see one I couldn't do without. Hope you and Tom will let me hang out with you occasionally until I find my way about here again."

Tom came home an hour sooner than usual that afternoon. Milly was in the kitchen, making a crisp, cool looking salad.

"Where you been to-day? 'Phone out of order. I've called six or eight times."

"I don't know," she returned evenly. "I've been in town all day."

"Why didn't you come round to the office at lunch time as you always do?"

Lunch With a Friend

"I went to lunch with a friend—"

"Yes, I know," he interrupted quickly. "Leslie's back here! Didn't lose any time ringing you up, did he? I don't like men of that type. Always time to dally around some other man's wife when he ought to have assumed some obligation of his own by now."

So he knew about her lunching with Leslie! "I don't agree with you," she told him boldly. "Perhaps he hasn't found the right woman. Better be sure so he'll have no regrets. He's wise, that ... At least, he's not fool enough to raise an unpleasant situation ... himself by obeying nature's cruelest ... sex instinct."

There was an awkward pause. An echo of his own words must have assailed his ears. "Oh, damn!" he said. Tried to grin and couldn't. "You've nailed me this time on a cross that I made myself. Let's call it quits—Milly, you know you're the only woman in the world for me."

"Well," replied Milly airily, "I'm not committing myself. You are the only man in my life right now ... I'm feline enough to like cream ... if there's sour milk in my ... at home I may wander. It has been done."

Whereupon Tom took her into his arms and called upon all the gods to witness that he would never say another cross word to her if she would only forgive him.

BEDTIME STORIES

By Foxy Grandpa

"THE flies woke me up in the morning, Foxy Grandpa," said Bobby, as he came out of his room in the bungalow which we had taken for the month of August down by the seashore.

Out of the screen-door Bunny shot as if a big fox was after him and he didn't come home until lunch time.

We didn't say anything but sat down and talked about everything else but flies, because as you know, when Bunny is on a "rant," as he calls it, he doesn't like anybody to ask him questions or make suggestions.

The next morning when Bobby came out of his room, I asked:

"Bobby, did the flies bother this morning?"

"No, so much as usual—but there are still a few. I'll get them with the fly-smacker after breakfast."

"Don't think that will be necessary," said Bunny, looking very serious.

"What's he doing, I wonder?" said Bobby's eyes to me.

Later that morning when Mary, the maid, was going into Bobby's room with her broom and mop and duster, I saw Bunny jump to his feet and whisper into Mary's ear and she smiled and shook her head and then went upstairs.

The next morning Bobby came in to breakfast and before I had time to ask him how he had slept he announced that not one single fly had wakened him and that he had not even heard one buzz.

"Fine," said I, "but we had better get the fly paper just the same when we go in town."

"Hardly think it will be necessary," murmured Bunny, finishing a crisp piece of lettuce.

We left the dining room and as Mary came in to clear off the table, when Bobby said:

"Do you know, Foxy Granpa, that I don't believe that Mary feels very well. She cleaned my room yesterday and do you know what she left in it? A great big spider's nest—right up in the corner of the room."

"That doesn't seem like Mary, does it? She is usually so thorough."

"Wouldn't say anything to her about it," said Bunny, slyly.

"Why, Bunny?" I asked. "Mary would be glad to know it. She takes great pride on her work."

"If you do," said Bunny, "Bobby won't sleep so well in the mornings until you get the flypaper."

"What do you mean, Bunny?" I asked.

"That that spider which I took in there the other day has contracted to catch all the flies which are in Bobby's room for this whole month."

"We'll go right up to see him," I said with pleasure.

Up to Bobby's room we went to see the little fly-catcher and there she was already with flies in her net.

"Pretty smart little lady." I said. "But remember that she has eight eyes."

"That's not many," said Bunny. "The flies which she catches have four thousand eyes."

"You'd think they would be able to escape her with that many," I laughed.

"It all depends how one uses one's eyes," said Bunny, blinking his own two pink ones at me.

ADVICE TO LOVELORN

By Beatrice Fairfax

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I had a young man friend whom I liked very much until I met another man. Then I lightly gave up the one who was a real friend. I told him I didn't care for his company.

The other man is gone, and I realize I didn't treat my friend right. I still care for him and I am sure he still cares for me.

Should I write and ask him to forgive me? Do you think he would understand how I feel about it?

Please help me. IRMA.

YOU might write your friend asking him to call on a special evening because you have an important message for him. When he comes tell him just what you have told me and ask him to forgive you. This may put your friendship back on the old basis.

If he gives you another chance, never treat him so unkindly.

SECRETS OF HEALTH

By Charles A. L. Reed, M. D., Former President of the American Medical Association

IT has sometimes occurred that people have developed symptoms of poisoning from arsenic without knowing either what was the matter with them or what caused it. As a rule these symptoms are slow in developing but occasionally they are more acute and violent.

When they develop slowly, or are chronic, they begin with a metallic taste in the mouth, headaches of gradually increasing severity but generally worse in the morning, thirst, pain across the back in the region of the kidneys and a gradual tendency to puffiness of the eyes in the morning, or swelling of the ankles toward evening. These symptoms show a gradual tendency to grow worse until actual inflammation of the brain, or kidneys, or both, develop a crisis that insomelimes fatal.

In the acute cases the same symptoms prevail but are more sudden and violent in their onset. They may even at times be associated with vomiting and run a more rapid course to a more generally fatal conclusion.

It has been found in the majority of these more or less mysterious cases, often involving an entire family, sometimes restricted to the occupant, or occupants, of a particular room in the house, that the house, or the room, as the case may be, was finished with green decorations.

A most frequent decoration of this kind is wallpaper, with green shades for the sake of harmony.

In the case of wall papers there is a very simple test by which you may determine the presence or absence of arsenic. Take a piece of the paper, three or four inches square, put it in a saucer, pour over it some spirits of ammonia, such as you get at the drug store, let it stand about ten minutes, pour off the ammonia, drop into it a crystal or two of nitrate of silver., which you can also get at the drug store.

Watch closely the crystals that will drop to the bottom of the fluid. If little yellow particles gather on their surface arsenic is present in the paper. This occurs because, under the law of chemical reaction, arsenic of silver is formed on the surface of the crystal and is a rich yellow color.

The safer rule, however, is to cultivate a taste for some other color than green, especially an emerald green which always indicates the presence of arsenic.

WHEN OBEDIENCE IS FOSTERED IN THE FAMILY

If you were told that you are courting death for your son or your daughter you would scoff at the idea.

Your children are the centre of your thoughts.

Nothing is too great nor too hard for you to do for them.

Some of your friends have suggested that you exact obedience instead of letting your child do about as it pleases?

Perhaps you allow a lot of things which other parents would not permit and that is strictly your affair.

Obedience means that when you say "NO" it shall mean "NO."

It is not teaching individuality to permit disobedience.

Obedience is a vital matter.

It is something you owe your child for its own health and happiness and prosperity.

FINANCE

BY B. C. FORBES

Thirty employes of large business enterprises paid an average income tax of $130,000 each. Of the thirty, everyone has made his own way in the world.

From what I know of their working habits, I would estimate that these highly-paid executives work an average of, not eight hours, but at least ten hours a day. Some of them, I know, average more than twelve hours.

How did some of these men who have risen to the top get their first footing?

E. H. Gary worked hard on his father's farm and also worked in a law office during the time he studied for admission to the bar. Sidney Z. Mitchell, founder and up-builder of the Electric Bond & Share Co., was brought up in modest circumstances in the South, entered Annapolis, but later migrated to the Northwest to sell electric appliances in a market that consumed mighty little electricity, so he started launching electric lighting companies to provide an outlet for his wares. E. T. Bedford, the veteran head of Corn Products Refining Company, was one of the early and humble associates of J. D. Rockefeller in the days before either dreamed of becoming a multi-millionaire. Julius Rosenwald was a modest clothing retailer before he became associated with Sears, Roebuck & Co.

The man who is now president of F. W. Woolworth & Co., Hubert T. Parson, was turned down by Frank Woolworth when he asked a starting salary of $12 a week. Samuel Insull was a London clerk when he conceived the ambition of becoming Edison's private secretary. He realized this ambition, later became Edison's right-hand man, then moved to Chicago, where he has built up the greatest utility enterprises in the country. James A. Farrell began as a day laborer in a steel plant and learned steel making before he went out as a salesman. He is now head of the United States Steel Corporation. Matthew C. Brush, when a mere youth, acted as purser on a Great Lakes steamer, and his eventful career since then, via the Boston Elevated Railway, Hog Island and American International Corporation, has been shaped solely by himself.

A. R. Erskine started very early as a clerk, developed aptitude for figures, became an accountant, showed brilliant executive ability, and finally reached the presidency of Studebaker, which has made history under his management. Owen D. Young, the son of a hard-working farmer, scraped and saved and worked to get a college and a legal education, made a hit in handling cases for Stone & Webster, attracted the attention of President C. A. Coffin of General Electric, and in due course became head of that enterprise. Cornelius F. Kelley, president of Anaconda and interested in other large-scale enterprises, also rose by way of law school.

Eugene G. Grace was swinging a crane in the Bethlehem Steel Plant when he was first spotted by Charles M. Schwab, whom, after a relatively brief period of brilliant work, he succeeded. James Simpson, now head of Marshall Field & Co., was a dry goods clerk and forged his way to the top unaided. Gerard Swope enjoyed technical college training, but he served several years in overalls before he was given a chance to make his mark as a salesman and it was his record in this that mainly led to his selection as president of General Electric.

Other business executives paying large income taxes who started in humble circumstances include J. H. Barringer, of National Cash Register; Charles F. Kettering, General Motors Research; William M. Wood, American Woolen; Eldredge R. Johnson, Victor Talking Machine; Harry B. Thayer, American Telephone; John D. Ryan, Anaconda, American Brass, etc.; Thomas N. McCarter, Public Service of New Jersey; Edward F. Carry, Pullman.

NEW EXTENSION IS PLANNED BY ATCHISON

President Storey of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe confirms the report that a branch line of that system will be constructed from a point on its main line in the South Plains region of northwestern Texas to Fort Worth, about 250 miles. Surveyors are working out of Post. An intersection may be made with the Atchison's system at some point other than Post, if the route now being surveyed is not found feasible.

FLORIDA WESTERN BONDS ARE CALLED

Florida Western & Northern 7s, due 1934, have been formally called for redemption at 104 on November 15 next. This issue, amounting to $7,000,000, was sold in May, 1924, proceeds being used to finance construction of Seaboard Air Line's new line linking the east and west coasts of Florida.

Retirement of these bonds will release to bondholders the ten common shares of Florida Land Co. per bond that have been held by in trust. The bonds went to a new record high.

Advice to Investors

FOR A 7 PER CENT. YIELD.

To A. A. B.—I have $5,000 to invest. I am looking for 7 per cent. from the preferred stocks of established companies. Will you kindly name some?

Ans.—You could buy ten shares each General American Tank Car preferred, Bethlehem Steel 7 per cent. preferred, American Water Works & Electric first preferred, Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific 7 per cent. preferred and Bangor & Aroostook preferred for $4,900. The annual income would be $350, which is 7½ per cent.

HUNTING FOR A "TIP."

To C. A. B.—Most of my money is invested in bonds paying from 5½ per cent. to 8 per cent. I have $12,000 to invest in common stocks yielding 6 per cent. to 7½ per cent., with the expectation of selling them at a profit. I want to buy the stocks outright, not on margin.

Ans.—You will find a number of stocks yielding from 6 per cent. to 7½ per cent., but whether your expectations of a rise will be fulfilled no one knows. Inadvertently you are hunting for a "tip." We cannot help you in that hunt. We have found most "tips" were futile affairs. This is because they have no basis but conjecture. If you bought thirty shares each Pennsylvania Railroad, Philadelphia Company and Southern Pacific and twenty shares each Union Pacific and American Tobacco, you would get 6¾ per cent. on an investment of over $11,000. Earnings warrant expectation of uninterrupted dividends in each case. But whether these stocks are going up or down no one knows.

UNPAID DIVIDENDS.

To H. H. S.—Kindly advise me on Goodyear Tire & Rubber preferred, as I should like to buy twenty-five shares. Does the company owe any back dividends on this stock? If I buy it, would I get the back dividends when they are paid? I should also like to buy twenty-five shares of Pennsylvania Railroad. I have $5,000 to invest.

Ans.—Your choice of Pennsylvania Railroad is sound, but Goodyear Tire & Rubber is a speculation. Back dividends of nearly 30 per cent. remain unpaid. If they were paid, stockholders of record on a date usually set a few weeks prior to the date of payment would receive the payments. If investment is your aim, you should not be taking a chance on payments of back dividends. Buy twenty-five shares of Pennsylvania Railroad and ten shares each of Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and Bethlehem Steel 7 per cent preferred. This will cost $4,600 and give you an income of $305, or 6⅝ per cent.

INCREASE IN SALES FOR GENERAL MOTORS

The Wise Man Says "Let Them Shoot"

That's the Best Part of the Fun and It's Soon Over

See the little man in black. This is how he thought it would be, if he devoted his life to the welfare of others. Honor, glory, praise would surely overwhelm him. But that wasn't what happened.

The NOBLEST career is devoted to the welfare of other human beings. Those that shine forth, brilliant lights in history, after selfishness grows dim and is forgotten, are men that have LIVED for others and DIED for them when necessary.

Work for glory, for your fellow man, for a noble reputation, if you have it IN you.

But be prepared for ingratitude, calumny, and then you won't be disappointed.

The picture above shows you how the young man DREAMS about it very often. He will be the "servant and noble benefactor of his fellow man." They will recognize his work and crowds will gather to do him honor.

The little picture farther down shows what the crowds USUALLY do to the man that works for others.

They throw mud at him, accuse him of dishonesty, selfishness and scheming. Gossip, envy, malice, hatred, all shoot their arrows at him or pick up the mud of slander and throw it at him. He is lucky if he escapes with his life.

This is how it REALLY is usually. The man that tries to live for others is a target for slanderous mud-slinging. Lucky if he lives through it.

John Brown wanted to free the slaves, and that seemed a good idea. They hanged him.

Giordano Bruno, discovering great truths ahead of others, gave knowledge and truth to his fellowmen. They burned him alive for his pains.

Galileo sought to free the world from ignorance. He announced that the world was round, that it revolved on its axis, sailing around the sun. He upset the stupid ideas of ignorance and the teachings of superstition that had lasted for centuries.

He was compelled to get down on his knees and swear that he abhorred, abjured and denounced his own teachings. He knew well that they were TRUE, and even as he was kneeling upon the earth he is said to have declared under his breath: "Nevertheless, she moves."

They made him say that the earth stood fixed while the sun and all the rest of the universe whirled around it.

And he HAD to say it, to keep from being burned alive. And in spite of his abjuring and denouncing of the truth, he had to spend weary years of old age in prison.

So with many others. Nathan Hale, who regretted that he had only one life to give for his country; Charlotte Corday, whose head was chopped off because she decided to free France of Marat, who was considered a horrible tyrant, and Madame Roland, who hoped to live in honor among a new French people, and died, instead, under the guillotine blade exclaiming, "Oh! Liberty, what crimes are committed in thy name!"

The dream of glory based on public service rarely comes true. Take the host of noble women who worked through a century to establish woman suffrage, and make of the mothers of the world something better than slaves of the kitchen

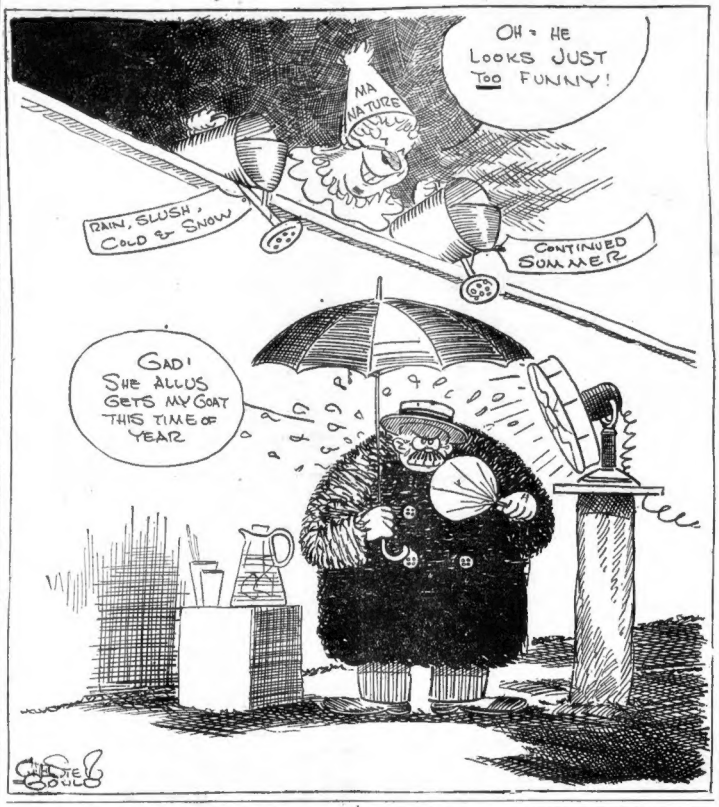
She's Got Him Guessing -:- By Chester Gould



MEDBURY SAYS---

By John P. Medbury

THE women have kept so many men standing on street corners and in front of drug stores that several fellows have formed an organization and are now charging two dollars an hour waiting time.

THEY wear meters in their pockets instead of watches.

ANY man who belongs to this club won't make an appointment with a girl unless she gives him a deposit.

AND then if she shows up on time he returns her money.

ONE dame kept a fellow waiting on a corner all night. She ran up a bill of eighteen dollars.

HE stood there so long that he wore holes in the sidewalk.

HE had to shave three times before she showed up.

THE longer a girl keeps a man waiting, the rougher beard she has to put up with.

IT'S too bad she can't meet him on time when his face is nice and smooth.

IF she makes a date to meet him at seven, he shouldn't shave until eight-thirty.

A BUSINESS man keeps his appointments right on the dot. He doesn't want to appear effeminate.

IF a girl shows up after two hours and you're still there she thinks you're dumb; but if you're gone, she thinks you're cruel.

THE only time a dame keeps a man waiting longer than two hours is after she's married to him.

BEFORE the wedding she's afraid she'll lose him. A year later she's afraid she won't.

ONE woman telephoned her husband to meet her in front of the post office at five o'clock and then went on her vacation.

SHE'S been gone over six weeks now and he's still standing there.

"You Said It, Marceline!"

—By MARCELINE D'ALROY—

ON "MODERN SOPHISTICATION"

A SOPHISTICATED WOMAN
Possesses authentic knowledge
Of the WORLD and
Of the MEN and
WOMEN IN IT, and
Because she knows HOW
To APPLY her knowledge
She is both ADMIRED and Sought AFTER.
A SOPHISTICATED girl
May know a GOOD DEAL
About MEN, and SOMETHING
Of WOMEN, but she does
NOT know the WORLD,
Or HER PART in it,
So she IMITATES

The sophisticated WOMAN
Whom she ADMIRES.
The UNSOPHISTICATED woman
Knows LITTLE of MEN, much
Of WOMEN, and NOTHING
Of the world to speak of.
SHE therefore imitates
The sophisticated GIRL whom
She believes knows EVERYTHING
WORTH KNOWING.
So we go on APING
And IMITATING that which
We ADMIRE, yet
DEMANDING of men
That they TAKE US
SERIOUSLY!

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

ALONG the city's busy ways in restless mood I go, still searching through the fleeting days for what, I do not know. Just what the need that urges me I do not understand, and yet I wander like the sea along its shining strand, until I chance upon a sight that stills my vague unrest, that stirs my spirit to delight and ends my weary quest. From off some gloomy thoroughfare amid the city's maze I turn, sometimes to streets so fair I wonder as I gaze. Not ways where pride and riches raise their turrets to the skies; but happy lanes where childhood plays and laughter never dies. For there I find the artless joy no wording ever gains, and there the peace without alloy, the hope that never wanes.

Marking Auto Fatalities

To the Friend of the People:

Auto accidents with deaths have occurred in so many places in New England this season, that to remind automobilists to be careful is not enough. The Governor of Ohio has ordered enacted on spots where death has occurred from such accidents, a white cross for every person killed in a motor accident in that State.

These crosses stand as a warning to pedestrians as well to automobilists alike. There's one corner on the road to East Milton that would command fourteen of these crosses.

Crowded Parking

To the Friend of the People:

A man of some prominence told me that he had a right to park his car on the street where he paid taxes and did business in Boston.

I said no, because on Cornhill, for instance, there is so much congestion that by the parking of autos, the delivery of goods in that locality is much interfered with. I showed him this plainly and also reminded him that because so many autos were parked on Cornhill the other day, a fire engine had to go down Brattle street.

Reading the Bible

To the Friend of the People:

A Bible stunt is going on in this city; a sort of athletic meet over that sacred book. Good people are trying to read the volume through, with relays of twenty-five people at one sitting. We do not question the sincerity of this group, so engaged, but the mere reading of the Bible in this hurried way can never reveal its meaning.

What is the benefit of this? I cannot understand, as the Bible requires years of study, as many ministers of this city will testify. Better take it: "here a little, there a little, line upon line, precept upon precept," as the Bible warns us.

Col. Mitchell's Charges

To the Friend of the People:

The people of this country, who are posted on current events, know the genuineness of Colonel Mitchell's charges and attacks upon the inefficient bureaus which control aviation in the United States at Washington.

They also know that, as a consequence of the Shenandoah disaster, he, as a citizen and as a military officer, was justified in complaining to the President of the criminal negligence of his superiors, the same way that a private citizen has the right to complain to the courts of law for the application of remedial justice to one who is guilty of some criminal wrongdoing.

Colonel Mitchell has the courage of his convictions, and because of the fearlessness and integrity he has exhibited in his attempt to obliterate that which has proven a public menace, his name will survive like other immortals, whose good deeds survived their deaths.

PETER A. DELMONICO.

Bootleggers for Prohibition

To the Friend of the People:

Bootleggers are posing as prohibition saints right here in evangelistic meetings. They are doing everything they can to boom prohibition for commercial reasons. Prohibition is bound to stay without their underhanded help.

But this new form of hypocrisy appears also at legislative hearings where prohibition is indirectly concerned.

FRANK CURTIS, Evangelist.

Must the Trees Go?

To the Friend of the People:

Shall we spare the elm trees or widen the roads?

This is the absorbing question at the present time in Needham. Trees are very attractive, but roads are more useful.

This is what many of us feel in the town. Everyone feels a loss to see a tree felled and its old place unfilled.

But the question is that Great Plain Avenue and the road to West Roxbury must be widened to prevent accidents and to provide for the increased traffic.

ROBERT S. FREEMAN.

Needham, Mass.

Gives Kids Free Rides

To the Friend of the People:

All honor to Captain Charles M. Munroe of the small power yacht "Flo and Roby," that cuts the water of the Charles River Basin!

All this Summer he has set apart, one afternoon in the week, for free outings to poor children, gathered from different parts of the city. How the children have enjoyed these trips.

CHURCH UNIFICATION IN CANADA

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THERE has been a great church unification in Canada.

Seven hundred thousand Methodists, Presbyterians and Congregationalists united their congregations and properties under the name of the United Church of Canada.

This is not a State church. The movement is purely private.

But it is a step in the right direction.

Unity is a sign of this day. It means progress and greater efficiency.

The various water power and electric light systems have unified, the steel companies to a large extent have unified, and other forms of business have done the same thing. There is no reason why religious workers should not imitate their example.

The thing that has usually stood in the way has been the office holder. Various denominations give jobs to many different kinds of people. These jobs are their sole support and they do not want to give them up. These people are leaders of the rank and file and are usually able to dictate the policy of their organization.

It would be a good thing if the various Protestant denominations in the United States were to imitate their brothers in Canada.

The tendency of Protestantism is to divide up into numerous sects. This has been the result of much thinking on the subject of theology.

When men turn their attention to religion, however, and the doing of good to their fellow men, it has a tendency to unity. They can all work together as well in time of peace as they work together on the battlefields in time of war.

Looking at the question merely for the benefit of the human race, we will say that religious unity is a thing to greatly to be desired. It is more important to unify the effort to uplift men by modern methods than it is to keep hold of the traditions of the past.

Most of the divisions of the sects do not rest upon differences that divide men now, but upon historic differences that used to divide them.

It is time we quit fighting the battles of our fathers and begin addressing ourselves to the task that is before us.

EARTHQUAKES AND THEIR CAUSES

By Garrett P. Serviss,

Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

WHEN anything that has been lying quiet suddenly begins to move, without evident cause, we instinctively ascribe life to it.

I felt a slight earthquake once, and the absurd, yet startlingly realistic, impression flashed through me that the globe was twitching its cuticle like a horse shaking off flies. Undoubtedly it was from such passing fantasies that all the old legends of pantheistic mythology arose.

But science shows the earth to be almost as restless as a fly-persecuted horse. The real myth is that of the stability of its rock-ribbed frame. To say nothing of the enormous movements recorded in geological history, involving the alternate uplifting and sinking of whole continents, parts of the earth's crusts are quivering one may say continually.

But as the minutest forms of life can only be seen with the microscope, so thousands of small earthquakes go undetected except by the sensitive seismometer.

One of the causes of earthquakes seldom mentioned is the wearing down of hills and mountains by the rains, and the transportation of soil, sand, pebbles and even rocks by innumerable streams and rivers to the plains and the seas. The wearing action is called "erosion," and the piling up at the final places of deposit "sedimentation."

The immensity of the work steadily accomplished by these operations, which gradually plane down the irregular surfaces of the continents and transfer the material to the oceanic depressions, has long been recognized by geologists and geographers, but the resulting effect upon the steadiness of the earth's crust has escaped general attention.

Recently, however, William Bowie of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey has been quoted as affirming that erosion and sedimentation are "the real cause of earth quakes," on account of the alterations which they produce in the distribution of weight on the surface of the globe.

Where the superincumbent pressure becomes very great, the crust yields and cracks and faults are produced which become "lines of weakness," along which subsequent disturbances are likely to cause earthquakes.

It has hitherto been the custom to ascribe earthquakes mainly to subterranean movements of the rocks, caused by internal shrinkage due to the gradual dissipation of the earth's heat.

Probably the two causes work together, for the interior of the globe is certainly at a higher temperature than the crust, and the heat is conducted outward at a rate which has been fairly well measured.

But if the core of the earth is cooling, it must be proportionately shrinking, and such shrinkage cannot but result in distortion and buckling of the cool-rigid crust, whose underpinning has been withdrawn or weakened.

The Wise Man Says "Let Them Shoot"

stove, or the nicely dressed and bejeweled toys of prosperous men.

Those advocates of woman suffrage were viciously and cruelly ridiculed, accused of immorality, of every crime that malice and ignorance could invent.

And remember, most pitiful of all, the noble Lincoln, as candidate for the Presidency, when he came to New York to speak at Cooper Union. Men and newspapers that should have known better asked him whether he was married to a black woman, and if THAT was why he wanted to free the slaves.

His dignified reply that he did not think it necessary to make a black woman either his wife or his slave did not end the calumny. He indeed lived for others, AND HE WAS MURDERED.

Occasionally, as in the case of George Washington, virtue and public service are their own reward here on earth. Washington's bitterness came early, when his soldiers ran away from him, when he marched from one defeat to another, spending much of his time in retreat, or when even earlier he felt that his life was a failure. He died in honor and glory and in old age. But that happens rarely.

If you want to serve your fellow man well, DO it, but let your conscience and your thought of the future reward you. And remember that the better you serve your fellow man, the worse your fellow man USUALLY will serve you. That's sad, but it's TRUTH.
